Fresh Storms Renew Floodwaters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Evacuations began for the second time in less than a week in southern Ohio Monday as rainstorms returned to the state to push falling floodwaters back up and out of their banks.

At Laurelville in Hocking County, the hardest hit community in last week's floods, the Salt and Laurel Creeks rose eight inches on Sunday and were still rising rapidly today. Some 500 residents remained evacuated and a five-day supply of federal surplus food was to arrive for them today. Maj. Gen. Sylvester T. Del Corso, Ohio adjutant general, said National Guardsmen who were to have left today might be kept on a few days longer. Storms which returned to Ohio Sunday after a sunny one-day break in the weather brought torrential rains and damaging winds to the central part of the state. A tornado hit the east end of Springfield.

Sandbagging operations were under way at Buckeye Lake south of Newark where flooding occurred because locks on the lake dam could not be opened to let water through. Some of the 1,400 Ohio University students forced out of their Athens dormitories last week moved back in Sunday night—only to be moved out again. The Hocking River remained two feet above flood stage and was rising, threatening to cut off the town again as it did last week.

The Ohio River reached its 52-foot flood stage at Cincinnati at 6:30 a.m. Monday, but the weather bureau said it expected the river to crest at 55 to 56 feet tonight without causing serious damage. The Little and Great Miami rivers, Ohio River tributaries, were overflowing in Warren County again Monday, pushing some four feet of water into Morrow and forcing evacuation of some of the same people moved out of their homes in last week's flooding. No injuries were reported in the Springfield tornado, which cut off electrical power to 1,800 houses, uprooted trees and blew the roof from one house after hitting the city's east end. Nearly two inches of rain was dumped on Springfield Sunday, flooding basements and streets. At least 15 roads in the county were impassable Sunday night because of high waters. Power was knocked out at two Springfield hospitals for about two hours Sunday night, but no emergencies occurred. The spring storm also caused a tornado warning for Columbus and surrounding counties Sunday night, but no funnel clouds were sighted. Columbus received a heavy downpour.

Residents in the flood-stricken southern areas had just begun cleaning up the muck and debris left by last week's flood when more rain fell Sunday. Rivers and streams had been receding after a clear day Saturday. Gov. James A. Rhodes has asked that 27 counties be declared disaster areas permitting them to seek federal help in rebuilding wiped-out businesses and damaged homes. The counties are: Adams, Athens, Brown, Butler, Cler-mont, Clinton, Fairfield, Fayette, Gallia, Greene, Hamilton, Hocking, Jackson, Licking, Meigs, Monroe, Montgomery, Morgan, Noble, Perry, Pickaway, Pike, Ross, Scioto, Vinton, Warren and Washington. At Laurelville — the hardest hit community — residents were undergoing typhoid shots to prevent the possibility of disease from the muddy flood waters. About 25 National Guardsmen remained on duty, assisting the residents by bringing in food from outside. Waters reached into Laurelville grocery stores and health authorities ordered the food stocks destroyed. Up to six inches of water covered the first floor of many business places, causing extensive damage. "Many will have to start over again," said Sheriff Hartman, referring to the hard-hit businesses. "The water was even with the teller's cages in the bank." "But they're taking it real good down here," he added. At least three bridges were washed out in Hocking County, Hartman said.

Thalidomide Trial Begins In Germany

$25 Million In Damage Claims Ride on Result

ALSDORF, Germany (AP) — West Germany's big thalidomide trial began today with an estimated $25 million in damage claims depending on the outcome.

The alleged link between the tranquilizing drug taken by pregnant women and thousands of congenitally malformed children is the issue in the trial being held in this small coal-mining town.

The prosecution spent five years preparing its case. It contends that there is a link between the drug and the wave of infants born with missing or malformed limbs and other defects of a type not noted before the drug was introduced on the market. Some of the children died soon after birth.

Seven officials and scientists of Chemie Gruenthal, a West German pharmaceutical firm, appeared in court. They are charged in a 972-page indictment with negligent manslaughter and inflicting physical injury through development, production and sale of thalidomide from 1957 to 1961.

Nigerian War Talks Resume

Hope To Salvage Stalled Meeting

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Negotiators from Biafra and Uganda sat down today in a final effort to salvage talks aimed at ending Nigeria's 10-month-old civil war.

Sir Louis Mbanefo, head of the Biafran team, and Nigerian delegation leader Chief Anthony Enahoro met with President Milton Obote of Uganda and Commonwealth Secretary Arnold Smith. Mbanefo had threatened to take his delegation back to Biafra because of repeated delays in getting down to the question of a cease-fire.

The Biafrans have complained that the Nigerians delayed the meeting a half hour Sunday, 90 minutes Saturday and one hour Thursday. Enahoro said the delays resulted from the disappearance Thursday of a Nigerian confidential secretary. He said Lagos had at first ordered him to hold off the talks pending a report on the missing man. Later, he said, he received orders to continue without the secretary.

Nigeria insists there will be no cease-fire until the Biafrans give up their claim to sovereignty. Biafra, formerly Nigeria's eastern region, declared itself independent last year after complaining of unfair treatment at the hands of the Lagos government. Tribal massacres had taken the lives of thousands of Ibos, the dominant tribe in Eastern Nigeria.

OSU Police Hold Youth in Porbe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University police picked up a 19-year-old Cincinnati youth early today after his release from a five-day city workhouse sentence for trespassing in OSU's Lincoln Tower dormitory.

Dimitrios Turner, who was not a student at Ohio State, had been charged with living in the dormitory without authorization. Campus police said they took him into custody today for questioning on "campus matters" which they said did not involve last Wednesday's fire in the high-rise dormitory.

Dump Injunction Hearing Starts

An injunction hearing on the closing of all dumps in Pickaway County got underway in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court today.

The injunction was filed by the Pickaway County Board of Health.

Homer Long, chairman of the county board of health, reported today the action was initiated as the first step in setting up a sanitary landfill operation for the county.

"We don't expect to have the dumps closed down without a time period allowed to let the dump operators phase out present operations and get a landfill opened," Long said.

"THERE has to be a starting place to establish a landfill and this is it," he explained. Although most townships are zoned against dumps, Long said he has been told that sanitary landfills could be established in areas zoned for commercial or agricultural uses.

A new law goes into effect Jan. 1, 1969, which board of health members believe will close down the present dumps, regardless of what action Judge William Ammer does concerning the hearing.

The new law prohibits operation of a dump in any flood plain or ditch where waters can float debris down stream.

Long noted today the present flood magnifies the need for a good landfill operation in the county. "Just go out to Hargus Lake and look at all the tin cans and bottles that have been

3 OU Students Fall in Shaft

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Three students remained hospitalized Monday after each fell down an elevator shaft in separate accidents at Ohio University's unfinished new library Saturday.

George R. Brown, 19, Columbus, was listed in critical condition at University Hospital in Columbus, where he was taken by helicopter Saturday. Richard A. Gotschall of Massillon and Thomas Rosenberry of Canton were listed in good condition at OU'sudson Medical Center.

Authorities said Brown fell down the shaft first and his moans attracted Rosenberry, who fell in on top of him while investigating. Gotschall went into the building and also fell into the shaft, which was later blocked off. He was later blocked off.

The American Legion Color Guard will be the first unit in the procession, followed by the Ohio National Guard Firing Squad and the Ohio National Guard Company. Next comes the Circleville senior high school band. The members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post and its auxiliary unit will march in the parade behind the band.

THEY will be followed by automobiles containing the ALLAN Berger represents Metz, and Richard Penn is Barthelmas' legal representative. The court room was nearly filled with persons interested in the outcome of the injunction.

Although the labor front was looking up, Pompidou was plagued with the possibility of more trouble on the second front of France's crisis, the student rebellion.

The National Students' Union called a 4-hour demonstration to begin today against alleged police provocations which it claimed were responsible for the bloody rioting in Paris Thursday and Friday nights.

The agreement worked out with the labor leaders included: 1. An increase in the minimum hourly wages from 2.2 francs to 3 francs an hour, or from 44 to 60 cents. This will affect 450,000 workers.

2. An across the board wage hike for industrial workers of 7 per cent on June 1 and another 3 per cent on Oct. 1. The unions reportedly asked for 21 per cent.

3. Reduction of the work week from 46-47 hours to 40 without loss in pay. A compromise was reached on the timetable.

The decision further charged lower federal courts with retaining jurisdiction in school segregation cases "so that the goal of a desegregated, non-racially operated school system is rapidly and finally achieved."

Student Unrest Also Plagues Gen. De Gaulle

PARIS (AP) — French union officials, management and the government reached agreement on wage issues today to end the nation's 11-day strike, but the immediate response from French workers was "non."

Meetings at big factories in Paris, Lyon, Marseilles and Nantes rejected the settlement and for the first time since the strike began Paris was hit by scattered electricity cuts.

Employees of the state-run gas and electricity company were angry because a meeting on their grievances had been put off.

Seguy said the unions had achieved only partial success in the two nights of negotiating sessions, which listed a total of 27 hours.

"We have arrived at an ensemble of conclusions which one can say constitutes an agreement," Premier Georges Pompidou told newsmen as the decisive 14-hour session ended at 7:45 a.m.

If the settlement is ratified by the workers, its cost may force De Gaulle to curtail or even abandon such expensive items as his nuclear strike force and large-scale aid to developing countries. He may also have to dig deep into France's hoard of gold which he has been using to put pressure on the dollar and the British pound.

ROAD REPAIR — Route 56 east near Scioto Creek is now open to traffic following repair work by the State Dept. of Highways. One-half the roadway was washed away by flood waters during the storm Friday morning. Work crews were out early Monday in an effort to restore use of the county's roads. Many roads in the county are still closed to traffic.

Sunday's Rain Totals 2.56 Inches

Flood-Stricken Areas Threatened by Heavy Rain

Several Circleville and Pickaway County areas, still in the midst of clean-up operations resulting from last week's flood, were threatened again Sunday.

Rainstorms Sunday dumped another 2.56 inches of precipitation on the already water-soaked areas. More rain is on the way, although the weatherman failed to comment on how much. Showers are predicted at least through Tuesday.

As a result of the flooding last week, Pickaway County has been placed on a list of 27 Ohio Counties declared "disaster areas" by Ohio Governor James A. Rhodes. Congressman Chalmers P. Wylie, 15th District, said today that Pickaway was included in the list that will be permitted to seek federal help in rebuilding their homes and businesses. Wylie noted the list will be submitted to the Office of Emergency Planning in Washington for final approval.

Sunday's downpour alerted local Red Cross workers, the Sheriff's Department, Civil Defense and others. Early in the evening, High Street School was set up to take care of families that might have been affected by flood waters. Cots and blankets were delivered here from Columbus by Red Cross workers as the emergency plan went into operation.

SEVERAL families were moved out of the flood-stricken Bloomdale Addition bordering Hargus Creek although the water level fell short of Friday's mark.

Rainfall yesterday brought the accumulation for May to date to 11.33 inches — 21.54 for the year.

The Scioto River here, still swollen from last week, reached a crest of 17.30 feet (flood stage is 14 feet) at 4 p.m. Saturday, but started climbing again Sunday after falling to 14 feet.

The river reading at 8 a.m. today was 5.0 feet and is expected to crest sometime Tuesday.

Steady rain Sunday and today have hampered cleanup and road repair operations in the flooded areas of Circleville and Pickaway County.

Sheriff Dwight Radcliff announced today that a steady stream of curiosity-seekers have created traffic problems in many areas.

He warned that unauthorized persons who ignore properly erected road barricades just to view the havoc wrought by the floods can be prosecuted. "These people are having enough trouble with their cleaning up operations," Sheriff Radcliff said today. "The sight-seers just make it that much worse."

THE sheriff's staff was kept on the move nearly all weekend by the flood and rains. At least two automobile accidents were caused by the flood, but no one was injured in either mishap. Yesterday evening, the sheriff's department received a call reporting that a station

Economists Urge Income Guarantees

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A national system of income guarantees and supplements was urged today by more than 1,000 economists from 125 institutions of higher learning throughout the United States.

They emphasized that to be workable such a plan would have to be based solely on need and would also have to include features providing incentive for working and saving.

"... Our present programs of public assistance and social insurance exclude millions who are in need and meet inadequately the needs of millions more," the economists said in a statement.

"All too often these programs unnecessarily penalize work and thrift and discourage the building of stable families," they added.

The statement was originally sponsored by five well-known American economists: Paul A. Samuelson of Massachusetts Institute of Technology; John K. Galbraith of Harvard; James Tobin of Yale; and Harold Watts and Robert Lampman, both of the University of Wisconsin.

Samuelson released the statement at a press conference at MIT.

Dump Injunction Hearing Starts

An injunction hearing on the closing of all dumps in Pickaway County got underway in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court today.

Divorcee Shoots Up Wedding

HOUSTON (AP)—The minister spoke softly in the candlelit church: "What God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

Suddenly, witnesses said, a woman stood among more than 200 wedding guests and shouted, "You forgot something! They're not married!"

At least three shots erupted from a .22-caliber pistol, police said. The wedding couple and 20 attendants fell to the floor near the altar.

One of the bullets struck and killed Lester Anderson, 22, best man at the wedding of his sister, Lorena Mae, 20.

Police arrested and charged James Etta Usher, 29, former wife of the bridegroom, with murder.

"I was blocked by the best man," said the Rev. Clarence Stewart Jr., who performed the marriage Saturday night. "If he hadn't been there, I probably would have been hit."

Wedding guests at the church told officers that Edward L. Usher's former wife sat in a front pew during the ceremony.

Plans were made before the wedding to change the phrase wherein the minister asks those who have any objections to the marriage to voice those objections, attendants said.

The decision further charged lower federal courts with retaining jurisdiction in school segregation cases "so that the goal of a desegregated, non-racially operated school system is rapidly and finally achieved."

ROAD REPAIR — Route 56 east near Scippo Creek is now open to traffic following repair work by the State Dept. of Highways. One-half the roadway was washed away by flood waters during the storm Friday morning. Work crews were out early Monday in an effort to restore use of the county's roads. Many roads in the county are still closed to traffic.

Sunday's Rain Totals 2.56 Inches

Flood-Stricken Areas Threatened by Heavy Rain

Several Circleville and Pickaway County areas, still in the midst of clean-up operations resulting from last week's flood, were threatened again Sunday.

Rainstorms Sunday dumped another 2.56 inches of precipitation on the already water-soaked areas. More rain is on the way, although the weatherman failed to comment on how much. Showers are predicted at least through Tuesday.

As a result of the flooding last week, Pickaway County has been placed on a list of 27 Ohio Counties declared "disaster areas" by Ohio Governor James A. Rhodes. Congressman Chalmers P. Wylie, 15th District, said today that Pickaway was included in the list that will be permitted to seek federal help in rebuilding their homes and businesses. Wylie noted the list will be submitted to the Office of Emergency Planning in Washington for final approval.

Sunday's downpour alerted local Red Cross workers, the Sheriff's Department, Civil Defense and others. Early in the evening, High Street School was set up to take care of families that might have been affected by flood waters. Cots and blankets were delivered here from Columbus by Red Cross workers as the emergency plan went into operation.

SEVERAL families were moved out of the flood-stricken Bloomdale Addition bordering Hargus Creek although the water level fell short of Friday's mark.

Rainfall yesterday brought the accumulation for May to date to 11.33 inches — 21.54 for the year.

The Scioto River here, still swollen from last week, reached a crest of 17.30 feet (flood stage is 14 feet) at 4 p.m. Saturday, but started climbing again Sunday after falling to 14 feet.

The river reading at 8 a.m. today was 5.0 feet and is expected to crest sometime Tuesday.

Steady rain Sunday and today have hampered cleanup and road repair operations in the flooded areas of Circleville and Pickaway County.

Sheriff Dwight Radcliff announced today that a steady stream of curiosity-seekers have created traffic problems in many areas.

He warned that unauthorized persons who ignore properly erected road barricades just to view the havoc wrought by the floods can be prosecuted.

"These people are having enough trouble with their cleaning up operations," Sheriff Radcliff said today. "The sightseers just make it that much worse."

THE sheriff's staff was kept on the move nearly all weekend by the flood and rains. At least two automobile accidents were caused by the flood, but no one was injured in either mishap.

Economists Urge Income Guarantees

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A national system of income guarantees and supplements was urged today by more than 1,000 economists from 125 institutions of higher learning throughout the United States.

They emphasized that to be workable such a plan would have to be based solely on need and would also have to include features providing incentive for working and saving.

"Our present programs of public assistance and social insurance exclude millions who are in need and meet inadequately the needs of millions more," the economists said in a statement.

"All too often these programs unnecessarily penalize work and thrift and discourage the building of stable families," they added.

The statement was originally sponsored by five well-known American economists: Paul A. Samuelson of Massachusetts Institute of Technology; John K. Galbraith of Harvard; James Tobin of Yale; and Harold Watts and Robert Lampman, both of the University of Wisconsin.

Samuelson released the statement at a press conference at MIT.

Unitarian Negro Group Funded

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Negro group within the Unitarian Church will receive $1 million over the next four years to put into action programs they decide on.

Delegates to the Unitarian Universalist Association's General Assembly voted 836 - 327 Sunday to allocate the Black Affairs Council $250,000 for four years.

Delegate Battles Continue on Rim Of Oregon Clash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has won the bulk of Iowa's Democratic National Convention delegates and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey holds the lion's share of Vermont's.

And Humphrey has 63 1/2 of Pennsylvania's 130 convention votes, an Associated Press survey showed today, to 19 for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and 2 1/4 for Kennedy.

A meeting of the Pennsylvania delegates has been scheduled today at which it is possible state organization leaders, who have tried to maintain official neutrality, may throw support to Humphrey.

Newsweek magazine meanwhile said Humphrey appears favored for 1,279 1/2 of the 1,312 delegate votes needed for nomination. Newsweek said Kennedy appears favored for 713 1/2 votes and McCarthy for 280.

Iowa Democrats gave 15 convention votes over the weekend to Kennedy, 5 to Humphrey and 2 1/4 to McCarthy. Humphrey got 10 Vermont delegates, Kennedy 7 and McCarthy 5.

The Iowa and Vermont delegate selection came just before the third crucial primary confrontation between Kennedy and McCarthy, this one in Oregon Tuesday.

Kennedy courted what his camp believed may be a large undecided vote in Oregon and McCarthy said "every sign" now points to a good showing for him.

Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon, predicting he will get 55 per cent of the GOP vote in Oregon, said supporters of California Gov. Ronald Reagan and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller are working in tandem to try to block his drive for the presidential nomination.

Reagan, a California favorite son who says he is not a presidential candidate, is on the Oregon ballot. Rockefeller, an announced candidate, is not.

Nixon was considered sure to win Oregon's 18 GOP convention votes in the primary and the Democratic winner will get 35 convention votes.

Leaders of organized labor, in an effort to help Humphrey, have waged a telephone campaign for votes for President Johnson, who announced he was not a candidate after his name already was on the ballot.

In other political developments:

—The only other primary Tuesday is in Kentucky where there is no presidential preference contests. Twelve Democrats and four Republicans are competing for respective party nominations for the seat being vacated by retiring Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky.

—National Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey spiked rumors that the party's national convention may be moved from Chicago and said "at this time we expect that none of the major groups that originally planned demonstrations will go through with them."

—The Vietnam war and race relations were listed the major problems facing the country in a Gallup Poll survey of 1,534 adults. The survey showed 30 per cent believing a Republican president could best handle the major problem, 28 per cent believing a Democrat could and 42 per cent saying there was no difference or expressing no opinion.

—Supporters of Kennedy and McCarthy joined forces at the Denver, Colo., Democratic convention to dump a slate of Humphrey delegate candidates. Three delegates pledged to Kennedy and three pledged to McCarthy were selected.

8 Are Drowned As Boat Capsizes

WELLS BEACH, Maine (AP) — Only one of nine Springfield, Mass., area men and boys survived the capsizing of a 16-foot boat in high winds and rough seas Sunday.

The Coast Guard recovered six bodies and was searching today for two men missing and presumed drowned. Eight of the nine were members of two families. The ninth was a friend.

A northeast gale struck the New England coast around noon Sunday, and more than 100 persons were rescued from swamped or capsized boats or from islands where their craft went aground.

The Coast Guard used helicopters and boats in the rescue operations.

Sole survivor of the boat upset off the Maine coast was Arthur Savageau Jr., 20, of Springfield.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana says expulsion and suspension if necessary—not congressional restraints—should be used to deal with unruly campus protests.

But Mansfield said today the great majority of students should not be condemned for the actions of a few. He said the gulf between students and administration and faculty in ever bigger and impersonal institutions is understandable.

The Senate leader said an amendment voted by the House would permit denial of federal loans to students who engage in disruptive demonstrations "is perhaps both unconstitutional and unworkable."

"But I think expulsion, suspension and other means can and should be used if necessary," he said, "to bring about a degree of reorientation and accommodation and understanding on the part of both the students and the faculty."

Mansfield was interviewed by Sen. Hugh Scott on the Pennsylvania Republican's weekly television and radio program.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has announced new requirements that all large contractors on federal projects have "affirmative action" programs to prevent and correct any job discrimination.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said over the weekend the new regulations expand the presidential executive order against discrimination by federal contractors, and will affect all federal contracts in the United States of $10,000 or more.

The department Friday announced preliminary plans to use the presidential order for the first time. Five firms were given until June 4 to request a formal hearing or face loss of present and future contracts.

The firms: Bethlehem Steel Corp., Bethlehem, Pa.; Timken Roller Bearing, Canton, Ohio; Allen-Bradley, Milwaukee, Wis.; B and P Motor Express, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Pullman Inc., Bessemer, Ala.

Jury Weighs Murder Case In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — A jury of 12 married men weighs the evidence today and decides whether or not Alice Crimmins is guilty of murdering her 4-year-old daughter.

The state contends that Mrs. Crimmins, 28, strangled Alice Marie, on the night of July 13, 1965, rather than lose custody of her to the father, Edmund Crimmins, 32, from whom she was then estranged.

The defense contends that both Alice Marie and her 5-year-old brother, Edmund Jr., were abducted from their apartment in Queens. The body of Alice Marie was found later in the day in a weed-choked lot nearby.

The boy's body was found in another lot five days later. Mrs. Crimmins is not charged in his death. The condition of the boy's body made it impossible to determine the cause of death.

State Supreme Court Justice Peter Farrell charges the jurors today before they begin deliberations.

The prosecution and defense ended Friday after 13 days of testimony, including admissions —under cross-examination—by the former cocktail lounge waitress that she had a number of lovers before and after she was estranged from her husband.

Crimmins, an airplane mechanic, has reconciled with his wife and stood by her during the trial.

Governor Sets Aerial Tour Of Flood Areas

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes and Maj. Gen. Sylvester T. Del Corso, Ohio adjutant general, scheduled a helicopter tour of the state's flooded areas late Monday morning.

Rhodes and Del Corso were to leave Columbus about 11 a.m. Del Corso said a decision would be made later today on whether or not National Guardsmen would be kept on duty in Laurelville in Hocking County or withdrawn as planned today.

He said Guardsmen and residents of the small town had spent Sunday sandbagging and repairing levee damage. The Circleville Guard unit had planned to move out today, but Del Corso said an officer had been sent to the town to evaluate the situation after rains began again Sunday.

City Water Supply Safe

Circleville's water supply is in no danger of being contaminated by the flooding Scioto River, Public Utilities Director Ervin Leist announced today.

Leist explained the river level would have to rise well above 25 feet to endanger any of the city's wells and at present that is extremely unlikely.

Leist said today that although it is not within the duties of the city water department to pump out basements, his crews have been helping local residents empty their water filled cellars.

The program will be concluded with the playing of taps. Memorial Day was first established in the United States in 1868 to honor the soldiers and sailors killed in the Civil War. It was later broadened to include the dead of all wars.

Cars for the disabled and older veterans are being provided by the American Legion Post. Soldiers who want to participate in the procession and the program at Soldiers Glen but who cannot walk that far should call Franklin Crites, 474-3501, after 6 p.m. any day this week to arrange for transportation.

8 Are Drowned As Boat Capsizes

WELLS BEACH, Maine (AP) — Only one of nine Springfield, Mass., area men and boys survived the capsizing of a 16-foot boat in high winds and rough seas Sunday.

The Coast Guard recovered six bodies and was searching today for two men missing and presumed drowned. Eight of the nine were members of two families. The ninth was a friend.

A northeast gale struck the New England coast around noon Sunday, and more than 100 persons were rescued from swamped or capsized boats or from islands where their craft went aground.

The Coast Guard used helicopters and boats in the rescue operations. Sole survivor of the boat upset off the Maine coast was Arthur Savageau Jr., 20, of Springfield.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana says expulsion and suspension if necessary—should be used to deal with unruly campus protests.

But Mansfield said today the great majority of students should not be condemned for the actions of a few. He said the gulf between students and administration and faculty in ever bigger and impersonal institutions is understandable.

The Senate leader said an amendment voted by the House which would permit denial of federal loans to students who engage in disruptive demonstrations "is perhaps both unconstitutional and unworkable."

"But I think expulsion, suspension and other means can and should be used if necessary," he said, "to bring about a degree of reorientation and accommodation and understanding on the part of both the students and the faculty."

Mansfield was interviewed by Sen. Hugh Scott on the Pennsylvania Republican's weekly television and radio program.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has announced new requirements that all large contractors on federal projects have "affirmative action" programs to prevent and correct any job discrimination. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said over the weekend the new regulations expand the presidential executive order against discrimination by federal contractors, and will affect all federal contracts in the United States of $10,000 or more.

The department Friday announced preliminary plans to use the presidential order for Flood . . .

wagon loaded with children was stalled in the underpass on Route 732 near Ashville, and water was rising rapidly.

When they arrived at the scene, the underpass was nearly filled with water. Deputy James Lockard dove into the water to search for the car. Fortunately, it turned out to be a false report and no vehicle was found in the underpass.

Later, a report came in that the supermarket in the Village of Ashville was being burglarized. Nearly all access roads to the village were inundated by water at the time. When Sheriff Radcliff arrived at the store, it again appeared to be a mistaken report.

County Engineer Henry McCrady said today that all the roads closed Saturday are still closed today.

They include the Zane Trail Road, the Morris-Salem Road and the Jefferson - Westfall - Emmitt Road in Pickaway Twp.; the South Perry Road; the Moccasin Road in Salt Creek Twp.; the Frankfort-Westfall Road, and the Randall Road.

SALT CREEK Twp. trustees said today the Moccasin Road was completely obliterated in places. Some families along the road can get to their homes only on foot today.

County Engineer McCrady said he had not yet given too much thought to getting federal assistance for road repair.

"I haven't had a chance to view all the damage yet, and I don't know just how bad it is," he said. He retained his estimate of a million dollars damage to roads and bridges in the county.

McCrady pointed out that the only federal aid presently available that he knew of was in the form of loans which would have to be repaid.

He has wisely maintained a comfortable surplus in the road and maintenance budget to provide for just such emergencies as this.

Families in Laurelville last night prepared to evacuate their homes again when heavy rains began to swell Salt Creek.

WATER was over Route 56 and Route 180, but did not get into the village.

One long time resident of the village area, Harold Strous, remembered the 1913 flood. He noted that in that flood the waters in the village did not reach the home in which he lived then. Friday, flood waters nearly five feet in depth swept through the house.

Typhoid vaccinations were given to all the villagers and emergency supplies including water were taken there Saturday and Sunday.

The Ohio National Guard was called to prevent looting and to keep sightseers out of the village during the cleanup operations.

Along Deer Creek, flooding has been kept at a minimum because of the new reservoir. The gates have been closed and the reservoir waters have now backed up over Route 207 in Fayette County.

Hargus Lake's waters are still two feet below the emergency spillway there.

Governor Sets Aerial Tour Of Flood Areas

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes and Maj. Gen. Sylvester T. Del Corso, Ohio adjutant general, scheduled a helicopter tour of the state's flooded areas late Monday morning. Rhodes and Del Corso were to leave Columbus about 11 a.m. Del Corso said a decision would be made later today on whether or not National Guardsmen would be kept on duty in Laurelville in Hocking County or withdrawn as planned today.

He said Guardsmen and residents of the small town had spent Sunday sandbagging and repairing levee damage. The Circleville Guard unit had planned to move out today, but Del Corso said an officer had been sent to the town to evaluate the situation after rains began again Sunday.

City Water Supply Safe

Circleville's water supply is in no danger of being contaminated by the flooding Scioto River, Public Utilities Director Ervin Leist announced today.

Leist explained the river level would have to rise well above 25 feet to endanger any of the city's wells and at present that is extremely unlikely.

Leist also said that the city sewage department is not affected either by the rising waters. He noted a depth of operations there can be curtailed.

Leist said today that although it is not within the duties of the city water department to pump out basements, his crews have been helping local residents empty their water filled cellars.

Two others were also to have been tried but were granted postponements because they are ill. They are Hermann Wirtz, 71, president and chief stockholder of the company, who underwent surgery May 8, and Dr. Heinz W. Kelling, 48, head of Gruenenthal's scientific contact department, who is suffering from a perforated ulcer.

An estimated 6,500 children in 20 countries from Austria to the Philippines were among the alleged victims of the drug.

Thalidomide has also been linked to a variety of adult disorders. It is known to have been manufactured under license in Britain, Sweden, Israel, Brazil and Japan and to have been marketed in a number of other nations.

The drug was withdrawn from the market in 1961 after a furor was raised over the growing number of deformed children.

Several cases were reported in the United States where Dr. Frances Kelsey, a federal drug administrator, blocked the sale. She was later honored by President John F. Kennedy. Some American women continued obtaining the drug from abroad, it was reported.

Bargain for Tourists

Washington is making a breath-taking effort to attract thousands of tourists this summer despite ominous threats of possible riots. It is offering foreigners discount of up to 50 percent on domestic airline tickets and on other travel expenses, having proposed and won special arrangements for these dispensations.

For example, the U.S. Travel Service has issued hospitality cards to foreign tourists entitling them to discounts at some hotels, car-rental agencies, store and all government park facilities.

The plan is far-sighted and practical. In a sense it's in line with tax exemption plans used by some communities to attract industry. It will be interesting to see if a foreigner's desire to get a bargain will overcome his fear of somehow getting involved in a race riot.

It will also be interesting to see how many foreigners decide not to visit Canada or Latin America, when they learn that these countries have no nationwide discount scheme to help them cut expenses.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. George Katona, the University of Michigan economist-psychologist who has measured with accuracy the rise and fall of consumer sentiments for more than 20 years, was asked this question a few days ago:

"Why did the 'consumerism' movement develop at precisely the same time as the nation's biggest and most prolonged economic boom, at a time when many families had more money than ever before and might be expected to spend freely?"

"Great wealth," he replied with the wisdom of both family man and professional explorer in the consumer mind, "does not mean we have no financial problems. Our financial worries are just as great and pressing as were those of our grandfathers."

The reason: wants have risen. It seems they always do. Following accomplishment or progress the American consumer almost always raises his level of aspiration. He continues to want. He simply raises his sights.

"We feel we need urgently what our grandfathers considered luxuries," said Katona. "Ask a man with children in college. Try telling him he doesn't have to send his children to college."

Consumerism is the buyer-resistance movement, an aspect of which is the housewives' revolt against high prices, that has turned timid customers into aggressive critics of products, packaging, pricing, safety and what not.

So deep is the sentiment from which consumerism has erupted that large companies now run self-improvement and correction courses to ward off regulation from Washington, which quickly discovered that consumers are voters, one and the same.

After dispelling the myth that more money necessarily leaves fewer wants or results in less critical spending, Katona went on to explain some of the causes of buyer resistance.

Perhaps the most immediate cause is consumer confidence, a quality that Katona studies year-round. For much of this year the consumer has been pulled two ways. His income is up so he is able to buy. But uncertainty about Vietnam and the economy has induced in him a wait-and-see attitude.

In Katona's view, housewives and other consumers are far more independent than as portrayed by Vance Packard in "The Hidden Persuaders" and John Kenneth Galbraith in "The New Industrial State."

Each of these authors views the consumer as more or less controlled or managed by giant corporations and their marketing, advertising and packaging men, a view that Katona believes falls far short of the complete truth.

"There is management of the consumer," he conceded. "But we consumers manage business as well. When a decision really matters the well educated consumer tries to do his best. He becomes concerned, seeks information and shops around. No longer is he a puppet..."

As a result, business always must try to find out what the consumer is going to do. "It works both ways," Katona said. "It's an egg and chicken problem."

Summarizing, Katona commented that the consumerism movement "is hardly a thing a few politicians created." It is deeply rooted. And he believes it will continue.

CASKIE STINNETT has discovered a hotel in Kyoto, Japan, that leaves no stone unturned to make well-behaved foreign tourists feel at home. Its impressive wine card, for example, lists various Bordeaux, Burgundy, Rhine, and Moselle, with their prices both in Japanese and English. Then, at the very bottom of the card, appears this last-minute tip: "Any other kind of world famous wine prepared to order."

A luscious Italian started got her big chance in a new multi-million-dollar film spectacle. Unfortunately, it was shot in Japan, and after five solid months in Tokyo, where she couldn't speak one word of the language nor eat the native raw fish without getting sick, she confessed to her director that each day made her miss her home in Rome more desperately. "Next time you have to leave Rome behind," he counseled her, "put a Tiber in your tank."

Kentucky's great basketball coach, Adolph Rupp, tells about the hillbilly who passed away and left his estate in trust for his grieving wife. She can't touch it 'til she's thirteen.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Can household pets transmit any diseases to their owners?

Almost always most household pets are completely harmless. Every once in awhile a pet may produce an attack of asthma in someone who previously had no knowledge that such a condition existed. This is not actually a transmission of infection but rather a sensitivity on the part of the exposed person.

A number of years ago a strange outbreak of salmonellosis, a form of intestinal dysentery, was traced to infected pet turtles. It took a great deal of astute investigation for public health officials to track down the cause. They did not stop until they uncovered the fact that both turtles and turtle food had been contaminated by the salmonella organism.

Only occasionally can a bird or parrot be responsible for a chronic cough caused by a virus, that has been passed on to a human.

It is a wise rule that all children must wash their hands thoroughly after playing with pets like turtles, hamsters and birds. A dog bite can certainly not be classed as a disease transmitted from animal to man. Yet it can be very serious, even in the absence of rabies that is infrequently found in household pets. I am always astonished by the number of serious bites that "gentle" animals inflict on members of their own family. Children must be taught to respect dogs, not to tease them and not to interfere with them while they are eating.

Buying household pets from a reliable dealer is one of the best protective devices for everyone in the family.

Should vitamins be taken all year round?

There is a need for vitamin supplements in the elderly and in the chronically sick throughout the entire year. Young infants and growing children should be kept on small amounts of vitamins in addition to their nourishing diets.

Adequate, well-balanced nourishing diets rarely need any supplementary vitamins unless there is a known deficiency of a particular one. The need for vitamins diminishes towards the end of springtime when the suns rays begin to be concentrated. This lasts until fall sets in. With a nutritive diet and the help of the sun's rays, the body manufactures its own Vitamin D. If fruit juices are part of a well-balanced diet there rarely is need in the adult for any of the expensive food supplements and vitamin additives.

A 250-pound wrestler once asked me how he should take vitamins. His diet was not only adequate, but his appetite gargantuan. I could not help making the humorous suggestion that he take a vitamin tablet between his thumb and index finger, open wide the window and flip it out. When he was strong enough to flip it across the street then I felt he was strong enough not to need any more vitamins.

I have a personal gripe about vitamins that are packed in tightly covered plastic packages. Anyone who is strong enough to open one of them with his hands or teeth should have no fear of having a vitamin deficiency.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail: Obesity, once a prestige symbol, has become so hateful to Americans that nearly seven million a year now seek medical help in losing weight. One out of every four persons has a girth control problem.

Do you feel some days that you're bearing the weight of the world on your shoulders? It might help to put your worries in perspective to recall that you are only one of three billion or so people on an obscure planet circling a sun which is only one of 200 billion stars in a single galaxy—and the universe holds millions upon millions of galaxies. You and all your problems are far less noticeable in that universe than one microbe is in a whale.

Violence long ago: Police reports still commonly designate an unknown weapon used to commit a crime as "a blunt instrument." But man didn't invent murderous blunt instruments. Recent excavations in Africa have unearthed crude stone hammers made 12 million years ago by a prehuman ancestor of man—scientists call him Kenyapithecus Wickeri. Mr. Wickeri used his hammer to bash in the skulls of antelopes—and perhaps those of his neighbors.

Worth remembering: "A fool and his money are soon invited places." Why do women traditionally wear wedding rings on the third finger of their left hand? According to one theory, the ancient Egyptians and Romans believed that the "vein of love" flows directly from that vein to the heart, the seat of tender passion.

Jogging is becoming increasingly popular among health seekers, but many deep thinkers and poets of the past have preferred walking. William Wordsworth, who lived to be 80, is said by fellow writer Thomas De Quincey to have walked 180,000 miles in a lifetime "of unclouded happiness." Other noted walking authors: Samuel Johnson, William Hazlitt and Henry David Thoreau.

Compulsory Unionism

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The union movement in the U.S. has encountered hard sledding in recent years. Its rolls, apart from an upsurge in teamster union membership, have remained more or less static, and it has been unable to force Congress to abandon the particular provision in our basic labor law that allows individual states to enforce a right-to-work code. Frustrated in their desires for expansion, the big-time union leaders have been casting hungry looks at the three million employees of the Federal government, and the nine million people on the payrolls of cities, counties, and the fifty states.

President George Meany of the AFL-CIO makes no bones about his endeavors to force some sort of "agency shop" on the employees of the various government administrative units. The "agency shop" wouldn't exactly be compulsory unionism, but it would forcibly extract the equivalent of union dues from every government worker in any bureau that had signed a contract with one of Mr. Meany's organizations. The financial "take" from such an operation would be terrific; if twelve million public employees were brought under agency shop status, it would mean more than $750 million a year. And if the AFL-CIO's COPE, or some other "political education" group, were to collect a dollar a month from three million Federal employees in an election year, it would create a campaign war chest of 36 million. Add a buck a month from the nine million State, county and municipal employees to this fund and the union momentum would be irresistible; only a slavish union labor stooge could ever hope to be elected President of the United States under such a dispensation.

It was President John F. Kennedy who once said, in an executive order, that "employees of the Federal government shall have, and shall be protected in the exercise of, the right, freely and without fear of penalty or reprisal, to form, join and assist any employee organization or to refrain from such activity." But the "right to refrain," while it still exit on the Federal level, is on its way out in many of the states. Michigan is a noteworthy offender: a recent survey of contracts in Michigan shows that there are nineteen union shop contracts, nine agency fee contracts, and twenty-seven "maintenance of membership" contracts, covering municipalities and their employees. The legality of such contracts is being contrasted, but two police department workers, Mrs. Martin Joslin and Mrs. Mary Bohn, who were fired in Grand Rapids a couple of years ago for refusing to pay compulsory dues to a union, have not been able to get back on the payroll.

In Delaware, a compulsory union shop agreement was recently negotiated between the county of Newcastle and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. In Waterville, Maine, the police department has signed a contract calling for a union shop—meaning that a neophyte policeman must join the union in order to keep his job. In Carlsbad, New Mexico, any new policeman is forced to join a compulsory union shop within thirty days after his employment. In Pennsylvania, the city of Scranton has signed an agency fee shop agreement with the International Association of Machinists. So it goes throughout the country. No wonder George Meany is licking his chops at the prospect of getting concessions to compulsory unionism in Washington, D.C.

If Mr. Meany gets his way, and the "right to refrain" that was so vigorously asserted by John F. Kennedy is overturned, what would become of the democratic proposition that the government of the U.S. belongs to all of its citizens? With a union shop or an agency fee check-off enforced in Federal and in the various state capitals, it would mean that only those citizens who believe in union compulsion could work for government. This would automatically exclude a big majority of people from taking part in the active work of ruling themselves. With a super-government passing on the qualifications of government employees, you could hardly call it government of the people, by the people and for the people. It would be government of the people, by the unions, for the union bosses.

Emmy Awards

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The apex of the award madness was reached on May 19, 1968, when the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences gave out 62 Emmies in 51 categories.

These were chosen from 250 nominees, and did not include other awards given off-camera for local station and international achievements.

To the television viewers who watched the awards ory and others throughout the spring, it must appear evident that the whole business has gotten out of hand.

The Emmies came last and bear the brunt of the criticism. That television itself should present such an inept show was scandalous enough. But the awards structure, which has undergone many an overhaul in 20 years, obviously needs to go back to the drawing board.

What kind of writing achievement is a show like "Laugh-In" with 10 gag men; should Lucille Ball continue to receive awards for doing her thing year after year, brilliant though she is? Is the public really concerned with the achievement of the cameraman of "It Takes a Thief" and the editor of the Bell Telephone Hour?

These are questions that the television academy could well ponder.

The Motion Picture Academy could stand some introspection, too. Happily, the Oscar categories have been pared down almost to minimum with elimination this year of the black-and-white vs. color distinction. But even with fewer awards, the telecast grows longer. This year it took 2½ hours to hand out 23 Oscars and 3 honorary awards.

The Tony Awards also succumbed to the false theory that length contributes prestige. To insure a starry cast, the planners dreamed up awards to such luminaries as Audrey Hepburn, Marlene Dietrich and Maurice Chevalier for their stage achievements. The transparency of this ruse is apparent when you consider that Miss Hepburn has not appeared in the Broadway theater for many years and Miss Dietrich and Chevalier have been represented only by their one-woman and one-man shows.

One of the awards shows the Golden Globes—apparently will not be with us next year. The Federal Communications Commission recently criticized the foreign correspondents' mode of selecting winners and NBC has since dropped the show.

Perhaps the most sensible of the awards shows is the recording academy's. The Grammys are handed out at a dinner for the trade; at a later date, many of the winning numbers are presented on a television special.

It was rumored that a Columbus syndicate of businessmen had secured an option on the property at the corner of Court and Watt Sts., opposite the Scioto traction depot. If the option was exercised, plans were to erect a three-story building. The first floor to house a theater, the second and third floors to be a hotel.

Two restaurants, two stores and two filling stations, all in the village of Williamsport, were broken into on the same night. Burglars recognized $27 for their efforts.

Robert Pickens, Robert Peters, Foster Bales, Charles Goeller and John Heiskell were chosen by Coach Swearingen as the track men to represent Circleville in the Central District meet at Delaware.

Roy Huffer, his wife and their five children escaped serious injury when the car in which they were riding was struck by a passenger train at the Houston St. crossing.

Five-year-old Betty Cooper, daughter of Mrs. Edna Cooper of S. Scioto St., was a "show stopper" when she appeared in the Eddie Powell Dance Revue at the Hartman theater in Columbus. She received more press notices in the Columbus papers than any other dancer in the revue.

A memorial (Kirwin Chapel) to the late Monsignor J. M. Kirwin was erected in Texas. Father Kirwin was a Circleville native, son of Patrick and Mary Ryan Kirwin.

Bargain for Tourists

Washington is making a breath-taking effort to attract thousands of tourists this summer despite ominous threats of possible riots. It is offering foreigners discount of up to 50 percent on domestic airline tickets and on other travel expenses, having proposed and won special arrangements for these dispensations.

For example, the U.S. Travel Service has issued hospitality cards to foreign tourists entitling them to discounts at some hotels, car-rental agencies, store and all government park facilities.

The plan is far-sighted and practical. In a sense it's in line with tax exemption plans used by some communities to attract industry. It will be interesting to see if a foreigner's desire to get a bargain will overcome his fear of somehow getting involved in a race riot.

It will also be interesting to see how many foreigners decide not to visit Canada or Latin America, when they learn that these countries have no nationwide discount scheme to help them cut expenses.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNNEIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. George Katona, the University of Michigan economist-psychologist who has measured with accuracy the rise and fall of consumer sentiments for more than 20 years, was asked this question a few days ago:

"Why did the 'consumerism' movement develop at precisely the same time as the nation's biggest and most prolonged economic boom, at a time when many families had more money than ever before and might be expected to spend freely?"

"Great wealth," he replied with the wisdom of both family man and professional explorer in the consumer mind, "does not mean we have no financial problems. Our financial worries are just as great and pressing as were those of our grandfathers."

The reason: wants have risen. It seems they always do. Following accomplishment or progress the American consumer almost always raises his level of aspiration. He continues to want. He simply raises his sights.

"We feel we need urgently what our grandfathers considered luxuries," said Katona. "Ask a man with children in college. Try telling him he doesn't have to send his children to college."

Consumerism is the buyer-resistance movement, an aspect of which is the housewives' revolt against high prices, that has turned timid customers into aggressive critics of products, packaging, pricing, safety and what not.

So deep is the sentiment from which consumerism has erupted that large companies now run self-improvement and correction courses to ward off regulation from Washington, which quickly discovered that consumers are voters, one and the same.

After dispelling the myth that more money necessarily leaves fewer wants or results in less critical spending, Katona went on to explain some of the causes of buyer resistance.

Perhaps the most immediate cause is consumer confidence, a quality that Katona studies year-round. For much of this year the consumer has been pulled two ways. His income is up so he is able to buy. But uncertainty about Vietnam and the economy has induced in him a wait-and-see attitude.

In Katona's view, housewives and other consumers are far more independent than as portrayed by Vance Packard in "The Hidden Persuaders" and John Kenneth Galbraith in "The New Industrial State."

"There is management of the consumer," he conceded. "But we consumers manage business as well. When a decision really matters the well educated consumer tries to do his best. He becomes concerned, seeks information and shops around. No longer is he a puppet..."

As a result, business always must try to find out what the consumer is going to do. "It works both ways," Katona said. "It's an egg and chicken problem."

Summarizing, Katona commented that the consumerism movement "is hardly a thing a few politicians created." It is deeply rooted. And he believes it will continue.

The legality of such contracts is being contrasted, but two police department workers, Mrs. Martin Joslin and Mrs. Mary Bohn, who were fired in Grand Rapids a couple of years ago for refusing to pay compulsory dues to a union, have not been able to get back on the payroll.

In Delaware, a compulsory union shop agreement was recently negotiated between the county of Newcastle and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. In Waterville, Maine, the police department has signed a contract calling for a union shop — meaning that a neophyte policeman must join the union in order to keep his job. In Carlsbad, New Mexico, any new policeman is forced to join a compulsory union shop within thirty days after his employment. In Pennsylvania, the city of Scranton has signed an agency fee shop agreement with the International Association of Machinists. So it goes throughout the country. No wonder George Meany is licking his chops at the prospect of getting concessions to compulsory unionism in Washington, D.C.

If Mr. Meany gets his way, and the "right to refrain" that was so vigorously asserted by John F. Kennedy is overthrown, what would become of the democratic proposition that the government of the U.S. belongs to all of its citizens? With a union shop or an agency fee check-off enforced in Federal and in the various state capitals, it would mean that only those citizens who believe in union compulsion could work for government. This would automatically exclude a big majority of people from taking part in the active work of ruling themselves. With a super-government passing on the qualifications of government employees, you could hardly call it government of the people, by the people and for the people. It would be government of the people, by the unions, for the union bosses.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, May 27, the 148th day of 1968. There are 218 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1941, the British navy sank the German battleship Bismarck, with a loss of 2,300 lives. The Bismarck had been pursued more than 1,700 miles after sinking the HMS Hood three days earlier.

On this date: In 1860, a force under the Italian patriot, Giuseppe Garibaldi, invaded Sicily and captured Palermo.

In 1905, a Russian fleet of 32 vessels was wiped out by the Japanese.

In 1936, the British liner Queen Mary began its maiden transatlantic voyage.

In 1937, the Golden Gate Bridge was opened at San Francisco.

In 1945, more than 100 crewmen were killed in an explosion aboard the U.S. aircraft carrier Bennington off the coast of Rhode Island.

In 1964, Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru died in New Delhi.

Ten years ago—The U.N. Security Council postponed debate on a conflict between Lebanon and the United Arab Republic to permit the Arab League to consider the issues.

Five years ago—The former Mau Mau leader, Jomo Kenyatta, became Kenya's first prime minister.

One year ago—The U.S. aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy was christened by the late president's daughter, Caroline.

Emmy Awards

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The apex of the award madness was reached on May 19, 1968, when the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences gave out 62 Emmies in 51 categories.

These were chosen from 250 nominees, and did not include other awards given off-camera for local station and international achievements.

To the television viewers who watched the awards orgy and others throughout the spring, it must appear evident that the whole business has gotten out of hand.

The Emmies came last and bear the brunt of the criticism. That television itself should present such an inept show was scandal enough. But the awards structure, which has undergone many an overhaul in 20 years, obviously needs to go back to the drawing board.

What kind of writing achievement is a show like "Laugh-In" with 10 gag men; should Lucille Ball continue to receive awards for doing her thing year after year, brilliant though she is? Is the public really concerned with the achievement of the cameraman of "It Takes a Thief" and the editor of the Bell Telephone Hour?

These are questions that the television academy could well ponder.

The Motion Picture Academy could stand some introspection, too. Happily, the Oscar categories have been pared down almost to minimum with elimination this year of the black-and-white vs. color distinction. But even with fewer awards, the telecast grows longer. This year it took 2½ hours to hand out 23 Oscars and 3 honorary awards.

The Tony Awards also succumbed to the false theory that length contributes prestige. To insure a starry cast, the planners dreamed up awards to such luminaries as Audrey Hepburn, Marlene Dietrich and Maurice Chevalier for their stage achievements. The transparency of this ruse is apparent when you consider that Miss Hepburn has not appeared in the Broadway theater for many years and Miss Dietrich and Chevalier have been represented only by their one-woman and one-man shows.

One of the awards shows the Golden Globes—apparently will not be with us next year. The Federal Communications Commission recently criticized the foreign correspondents' mode of selecting winners and NBC has since dropped the show.

Perhaps the most sensible of the awards shows is the recording academy's. The Grammys are handed out at a dinner for the trade; at a later date, many of the winning numbers are presented on a television special.

Seven killings were found and killed in two days time by three men from Yellowbud. The rattlers — the largest was about two and a half feet long and had 11 rattles, were found on the Stevenson farm, in Wayne Twp., west of Yellowbud.

It was rumored that a Columbus syndicate of businessmen had secured an option on the property at the corner of Court and Watt Sts., opposite the Scioto traction depot. If the option was exercised, plans were to erect a three-story building. The first floor to house a theater, the second and third floors to be a hotel.

Two restaurants, two stores and two filling stations, all in the village of Williamsport, were broken into on the same night. Burglars recognized $27 for their efforts.

Robert Pickens, Robert Peters, Foster Bales, Charles Goeller and John Heiskell were chosen by Coach Swearingen as the track men to represent Circleville in the Central District meet at Delaware.

Roy Huffer, his wife and their five children escaped serious injury when the car in which they were riding was struck by a passenger train at the Houston St. crossing.

Five-year-old Betty Cooper, daughter of Mrs. Edna Cooper of S. Scioto St., was a "show stopper" when she appeared in the Eddie Powell Dance Revue at the Hartman theater in Columbus. She received more press notices in the Columbus papers than any other dancer in the revue.

A memorial (Kirwin Chapel) to the late Monsignor J. M. Kirwin was erected in Texas. Father Kirwin was a Circleville native, son of Patrick and Mary Ryan Kirwin.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Neighbor Yoo-hoos, Peek-a-boos

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about people who just walk into your house because the door isn't locked? Many times I will tell my grocer to set my groceries inside my door instead of on the back porch, and I leave the door unlocked for him. Well, this neighbor lady tried my back door, and, finding it unlocked, she walked right in. She yoo-hoos and nobody answered because my husband was in the shower. He thought he heard someone come in, and, thinking it was me, he walked out. She said she heard the shower running, and, thinking it was me, she walked in. They met in the hall.

Now my husband can't face her and wants to move. We have lived in this house for 36 years and I think he's silly. What do you suggest?

EMBARRASSED
DEAR EMBARRASSED: A towel and another "yoo-hoo" at the right place and the right time would have saved the day. Stay where you are; and tell your blushing hubby he's not as fascinating as he may think.

DEAR ABBY: This may sound like a silly problem to you but it is serious to me. My bones crack. Honestly, when I'm sitting in one place for a while and then start walking, my knee cracks. It doesn't hurt, but it is very embarrassing.

When I eat, sometimes my jaw snaps. If you are laughing at me I can't blame you, Abby, but I sure wish you would tell me if there is anything I can do about my problem.

"CRACKY"
DEAR CRACKY: Grin and bear it. The "problem" is grossly exaggerated only because it's your own. How much attention would you give to the "cracking" of someone else's knee? Or the snapping of his jaw? Not much, I'll bet.

DEAR ABBY: I have preschool children and a large home to care for, but I schedule my time so that everything gets done. When the children nap, I read, write letters, and relax alone, which I enjoy.

At that precise time, invariably a certain neighbor barges in on me with her children. She helps herself to refreshments, then settles down for an endless outpouring of gossip, unasked-for advice and a monologue of opinions on various subjects. She is a terrible bore.

I would pretend not to be home, but she can see my car in the garage. At first, I found her entertaining, but now she comes so often, I've taken a dislike to her. Please tell me what to do, but don't use my name or location. She has a vicious tongue and would make a better friend than an enemy.

TRAPPED
DEAR TRAPPED: People who open their doors to bores and tolerate their company day after day have only themselves to blame. By your failure to discourage her, you've encouraged her. If you had to decide between having this rude vicious, gossip pest for a friend or an enemy, I think you made an unwise choice.

Post Strike Steel Orders Being Placed

CLEVELAND (AP) — Some steel buyers are placing post strike orders for August delivery, seeking to be first in line for deliveries when an expected work stoppage ends, Steel Magazine said today.

"Should a steelworkers' strike be averted, or prove to be short-lived, consumers figure they can cancel the orders," the weekly journal of metalworking said.

A pickup in demand for steel from the automobile manufacturers reflects strong auto sales and production, while appliance makers and other hard goods manufacturers are showing more buying interest than had been expected, the magazine said.

"New orders are developing sufficient volume to assure the filling of open spaces in June and July rolling mill schedules," it continued. "At the same time, steelmakers are starting to work off their order backlog."

Steel said relatively little order duplication among the mills is noted and consequently, few cancellations by consumers are likely as long as a strike is threatened.

"This reflects unusual consumer complacency about supplies in the face of a threatened work stoppage," the trade magazine said. "Some of this stems from the fact substantial producing capacity would not be immediately affected by a strike in August and large steel service center stocks will be available."

Heavy imports also can be depended upon to bridge supply gaps, it added.

The magazine said steel production slipped last week for the second straight week, estimating the output at 2.83 million net tons.

Steel's composite price on No. 1 heavy melting grade of steel-making scrap remained at $25.33 a gross ton for the third straight week.

Expect Frank Fitzsimmons To Go for Teamster Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank E. Fitzsimmons, sitting in as Teamsters Union president for the imprisoned James R. Hoffa, hints he intends to keep control of the world's biggest union until he can run for election to succeed Hoffa.

Denying a published report that he plans to retire before the next convention of the 1.9 million-member Teamsters in 1971, Fitzsimmons, 60, said, "I will be at this business for years to come."

Fitzsimmons' statement, published in the Teamsters' magazine, appeared to confirm other reports that most top union officials discount the possibility of Hoffa getting freed in time for a convention bid to return to power.

"I hope to return," Hoffa said 14 months ago when he was carted off to the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary to serve an eight-year jury-tampering sentence.

But while Hoffa still retains the title of president, without the $100,000-a-year salary, his firm control of the union is gone.

Hoffa still is fighting a five-year federal fraud sentence in connection with the use of union pension funds. This is separate from the jury-tampering conviction.

Most Teamsters leaders believe if Hoffa is paroled, it won't be until after the June 1971 convention, when his five-year term as president runs out.

But Fitzsimmons, personally chosen by Hoffa to serve as acting president, isn't expected to have clear sailing to win the Teamsters' presidency in his own right.

Much of the power under Hoffa's firm central control of the union has slipped back to 12 regional vice presidents, who operate with a minimum of consultation with Fitzsimmons.

Still, some housewives started hoarding food and some items were hard to find in shops. On Saturday, for example, it was possible to buy beef, tomatoes or cherries in any shop but one could hardly get salt, sugar, oil, canned food or even wine.

Prices doubled or tripled in a week. Trying to force prices down, some angry housewives threatened to bring charges of black market profiteering against grocers as in World War II.

But there also were cases of price reductions for some perishable vegetables, such as tomatoes, when grocers saw they might have to throw them away.

The first fan probably was a leafy branch waved by some pre-historic man to fan his fire or whisk flies from food.

Favorites Forge Ahead Via Rock Lobster Tails

By ALICE DENHOFF

For that often desirable "something special" for luncheon or supper, how about South African rock lobster tails? They are deliciously different and easily prepared.

Here are some recipes that we hope may interest you.

First, for a salad main course, try:

COLD ROCK LOBSTER WITH SHARP SAUCE

6 (4-6 oz.) frozen rock lobster tails
2 egg yolks, hard-cooked
2 egg yolks, raw
1 tsp. dry mustard
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. white pepper
2 tsp. lemon juice
1 tbsp. finely chopped dill (optional)
1 c. heavy cream

Drop frozen rock lobster tails into boiling salted water. Cook 5-8 min. Drain with cold water. Drain. Cut down both sides of undershell with kitchen scissors peel off undershell. Insert thumb between shell and meat, then gently pull meat from shell in one piece. (Sounds difficult but really it's easy.)

Put hard-cooked yolks through sieve. Mix in raw egg yolks and blend with next 5 ingredients. Whip cream until firm; add to egg mixture gently, blending with a few strokes. Add rock lobster to sauce and fill shells. Garnish with extra sauce. This serves 6.

For another nice salad, try: CAPE TOWN SALAD

6 (3-5 oz.) rock lobster tails
1 tbsp. herb vinegar
1 1/2 c. minced celery
1/4 c. mayonnaise
1/4 c. shredded unblanched almonds

Drop rock lobster tails into boiling salted water. When water boils, simmer 3 to 6 min. if frozen lobster tails are used. If they are thawed, simmer 3 to 5 min. Drain and drench immediately with cold water. Cut away undershell with kitchen scissors. Remove meat and chill. Dice meat; add vinegar and mix well. Add celery and mayonnaise; mix. Add more mayonnaise, if desired.

Serve on bed of lettuce or other salad greens, garnished with shredded almonds and ripe olives. This serves 6.

Here is a nice barbecue notion:

BARBECUED ROCK LOBSTER TAILS "PAPRIKA"

6 (4 oz.) rock lobster tails

1/4 c. butter or margarine
2 tsp. fresh lemon juice
2 tsp. paprika
1/4 tsp. onion salt

Thaw rock lobster tails. Cut underside membrane around edge and remove. Grasp lobster tail in both hands and crack shell firmly lengthwise, to prevent curling. Or insert skewers to keep lobster tails flat. Place them flesh side toward heat first and grill 5 min. Turn, brush with sauce made by melting butter in saucepan and blending in remaining ingredients, then heating. Grill lobster tails an additional 12 min. until they are opaque.

WATER ST. — Rainfall Sunday night again pushed Salt Creek out of its banks into the streets of Laurelville. Shown above is Water St., which was completely covered during the night. Work crews were hard at work Monday morning, ridding the streets of the sludge left behind.

ONE OF THE LUCKY ONES — Herman (Shorty) Lines hoses off the steps leading to his second story apartment over a food store in the center of the village. Flood waters left debris as high as the ninth step and completely wiped out the food store below.

GUARD AT THE BANK — The National Guard was moved into the village Saturday and have remained there since to aid townspeople and curb looting. Above, two guardsmen stand at the door of the Salt Creek Valley Bank, which was under five feet of water Saturday.

AP Society Names Osler New President

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Jack Osler of the Dayton Daily News is the new president of The Associated Press Society of Ohio.

He was elevated from vice president Sunday as the group held its annual spring business meeting here. Osler succeeds Tom Hunter of the Wilmington News Journal.

Trustee Paul Day of the Mid-dletown Journal was elected vice president and William M. Ware of the Cleveland Plain Dealer was named trustee.

The group will hold its fall meeting in October in Dayton. Society members heard a taped discussion by James L. Knight, a director of The Associated Press and board chairman of Knight Newspapers, on recent technological advances in the newspaper industry.

The discussion was illustrated with color slides of computer equipment now available to aid in newspaper makeup.

The group also discussed the Ohio AP news report, including the problem of securing information from the U. S. Weather Bureau, which remains on stand, and time during periods of Day-light Saving Time.

At a banquet meeting Saturday night, AP award-winning science writer Alton L. Blakeslee discussed recent scientific developments.

Blakeslee said people soon will start paying for the luxuries they have enjoyed for many years.

"Everything we do now has to have more foresight. Now, hopefully, people will try to anticipate some of the problems of human life," he said.

Blakeslee said heart transplants is a logical progression of the transplant of human organs and suggested that the

Seek 2 Escaped Mental Patients

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — The search for two escaped mental patients swung to San Francisco today after the release there unharmed of the last of four hostages and the recapture of one patient.

Frank Svehla, 53, the last hostage, hailed a passing patrol car in San Francisco about 4 a.m.

He and three others were seized when the three patients fled Atascadero State Hospital Sunday. Svehla is a psychiatric technician.

The three, all with criminal records, armed and considered extremely dangerous, stabbed two guards, Sgt. Dave Baro and Robin Moore, when they broke from the hospital 20 miles north of here.

They took the wounded guards, Svehla and Mrs. Dorothy Warren, 40, also a psychiatric technician, as hostages.

Sheriff's officers, police and highway patrolmen threw up road blocks throughout the county.

Officers captured Robert Hig-uera near Pismo Beach, 12 miles south of here.

Mrs. Warren was released unharmed before the capture, the sheriff's officer said.

With an all-out manhunt under way, he said, the three men holed up Sunday night at a house in Los Osos, a community six miles northwest of here.

The family returned home about 7:30 p.m. and was held hostage until about 9:15 p.m., he said.

Then, the officer related, the men split up, taking the family's two cars. The family was not harmed.

Dr. Sterling Morgan, director of the hospital, said the apparent leader of the break was a mentally disordered sex offender from Los Angeles named Gerard Gallant, 28, who has been convicted of armed robbery and rape.

The other two, also from Los Angeles, were named as George Quinlan, 25, charged with kidnapping and shooting a policeman at Los Angeles, and Higueria, charged with theft and narcotics violations. Both had been adjudged unable to stand trial because of insanity.

Morgan said the break came after a disturbance had been reported in a ward. A group of attendants was met by the three patients, armed with a .45-caliber pistol and two knives, herding the four hostages in front of them.

Judge Places 2 On Probation

Paul David Boysel, 424 John St., charged with attempting to break into an inhabited building during the night season, was placed on three years probation by Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William Ammer Saturday.

Boysel entered a plea of guilty to the charge at a previous hearing. He was sent to Lima State Hospital for the criminally insane and returned to Pickaway County recently for sentencing.

Bernard DeLong, Route 1, Kingston, who previously pleaded guilty to a charge of carnal knowledge of a 15 year old girl, was placed on probation for three years. He also was recently returned from Lima State Hospital for sentencing.

Kentuckian Slain

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Albert Lee Crout Jr., 31, Covington, was shot to death early this morning during an argument with another man at Darpel Cafe here, police said.

Charged with murder was Gordon Chapel, 60, Covington.

London 'Wash-In' Proves Washout

LONDON (AP) — Twenty students peeled off their blue jeans and miniskirts Sunday in an attempt to bring friendship to a British laundromat, but police were unfriendly to the demonstrators.

The students stripped to their underwear and put their clothes in the washing machines. Girls wrapped themselves in towels and football sweaters.

"Laundrettes are such dreary places," explained the leader of the wash-in, Nick Flowerdew, as he shivered in his bright red drawers. "Everyone just watches his washing going round and never speaks to anyone else. They should be friendly."

Six policemen broke up the demonstration.

A larger answer to heart transplants, he said, might be a completely mechanized heart made of metal or plastic and perhaps getting its energy from body electricity.

Bernard DeLong, Route 1, Kingston, who previously pleaded guilty to a charge of carnal knowledge of a 15 year old girl, was placed on probation for three years. He also was recently returned from Lima State Hospital for sentencing.

London 'Wash-In' Proves Washout

LONDON (AP) — Twenty students peeled off their blue jeans and miniskirts Sunday in an attempt to bring friendship to a British laundromat, but police were unfriendly to the demonstrators.

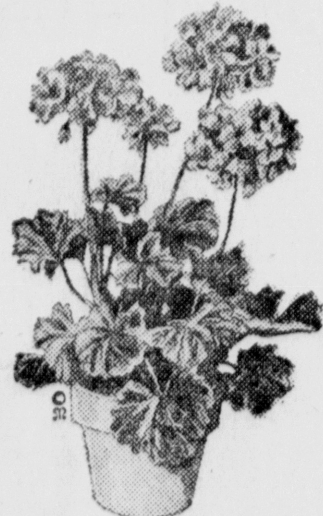

The students stripped to their underwear and put their clothes in the washing machines. Girls wrapped themselves in towels and football sweaters.

"Laundrettes are such dreary places," explained the leader of the wash-in, Nick Flowerdew, as he shivered in his bright red drawers. "Everyone just watches his washing going round and never speaks to anyone else. They should be friendly."

Six policemen broke up the demonstration.

problems of organ transplants cannot be completely solved until methods are established for storing the necessary parts.

A larger answer to heart transplants, he said, might be a completely mechanized heart made of metal or plastic and perhaps getting its energy from body electricity.

Despite Talks in Paris, Viet War Still Slogs Along

CAI LAY, Vietnam (AP) — The day peace talks started in Paris, Capt. Mike Peck led 100 Americans on a daylong trek through the mucky paddyfields and steaming nipa palms of the Mekong Delta.

It was a frustrating search along the sluggish Bao Ba River for an enemy hideout that was never found. The sun was blistering and the company ran out of fresh water, drinking stinking canal water made worse tasting by bitter purification tablets. There was no time to eat.

The men were beat when they came back to their bunkered camp at sundown. They gulped down a hot meal and dropped off to sleep on dirty blankets, still grimy from the delta's mud.

"It was just another day, a typical dry-hole," the husky, 27-year-old company commander recalled. "Nobody even mentioned the peace talks. I don't think my 'hoodlums' gave it a thought."

Peck's "hoodlums"—he sometimes also calls them "my merry mob"—are almost all draftees, many of them teen-agers. A sergeant of 24 considers himself a father-figure.

For them, the diplomatic convolutions of Paris are remote and unreal—as most of the world becomes unreal to an infantryman whose life depends on his rifle and immediate buddies.

Since the Americans and North Vietnamese began talking in Paris, the company has been on the march daily, seeking guerrillas who slip along canals and through villages they have known since childhood. At night the Americans put out ambushes and roaming, six-man "killer patrols."

With constant movement a part of his life, an infantryman in Vietnam has few benchmarks to judge time. Ask him what he has done since the peace talks started May 13 and he will reply, "How long ago was that?"

"Everything sort of blends in out here," says Peck, who is from Milford, Ohio, speaks French and English, served an exchange tour with the French army's paratroops and is on his second tour in Vietnam.

"You know," said Pfc. Dwight Shuey, a 20-year-old from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., "we're not as bad as we sound. We do try to follow things. We talk about the peace talks sometimes but the war still goes on. It's the war we think about mostly."

"I do believe in the cause of this war," Shuey said. "I think we should be here. A lot of times I don't agree with how it is being fought but I think we should be here."

His platoon sergeant, William Gulden of Pennington, N.J., a husky 24-year-old who plans to go home to study psychology, agreed, with reservations.

"Most of the guys couldn't care less what happens in Paris," he shrugged. "They know it won't affect anybody here for a long, long time."

Clothing Sent from U.S. Now on Viet Black Market

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Some clothing donated by Americans to the Catholic Relief Services for use by the Vietnamese is being sold in the Da Nang black market.

Men and women rummage through the shirts, slacks and occasional sweaters spread over tables in the black market stalls. The customers pick out the clothes they want, haggle amiably over the price with several women clerks and close the deal.

Three shipping bags were seen this weekend in the stalls. They were marked "From Catholic Relief Services, U.S. C.C., U.S.A., donated by Catholics of America. Not to be sold or exchanged."

Three black marketeers said the clothes were obtainable for 5,000 piasters, or about $42, per 220-pound bag marked "Catholic Relief Services."

At least 200 such bags have been bought in the last 10 days sale in the Da Nang black market, these sources said.

The average profit on each bag is about 1,000 piasters, or $8.40, they added.

The regional director for the private agency in the five northern provinces, Matt D'Arcy, was not available for immediate comment.

Father Nguyen Khac Tuan, executive director for the service in Da Nang, said he did not know of the black market activity and if it did exist he had no idea how it came about.

The Catholic Relief services in Vietnam deal on a large scale, assisting upward of 100,000 refugees and needy in the five northern provinces with gifts of clothing and food. One source said the service has provided victims of the Tet offensive last February in Hue with 2,000 100-kilo bags of clothing. A kilogram is 2.2 pounds.

The trial recessed Friday after testimony by John McDonough, an assistant deputy U.S. attorney general, who said Spock, Coffin, Goodman and Raskin demanded last Oct. 20 that he accept from them a briefcase filled with draft cards and facsimiles.

"I told them I could not and would not accept the briefcase," McDonough testified.

He said he wrote to the U.S. Department of Immigration last year informing it of his planned voyage.

Last year Reynolds, 56, sailed his 50-foot craft, the Phoenix, to North Vietnam.

Sailplane Pilot Gravely Hurt In Landing

Crash Came At Welcome Ceremony Site

SANTA PAULA, Calif. (AP) — Within sight of home after a 9,000-mile flight from Europe, Mira Slovak's sailplane crashed while a big welcome waited. He was gravely injured.

Two thousand persons and a victory barbecue were ready at Santa Paula Municipal Airport Sunday to welcome the adventurous 38-year-old glider pilot back from his long flight across the Atlantic and North America.

It was 30 seconds to go in the previously uneventful flight for Slovak, the world's champion hydroplane pilot in 1958 and 1966.

The big-winged red and white glider, powered by a tiny German engine, settled in over the east runway and touched down out of sight. Seconds later came word the "Spirit of Santa Paula" had crashed into a 20-foot drainage ditch below a bluff.

Dr. Ernest Carlson said the former Czechoslovakian air force pilot suffered four fractured vertebrae, broken ribs, internal injuries and concussion. He was in Santa Paula Community Hospital.

A gust apparently caught the sailplane causing a wingtip to strike the ground, airport officials said. The bluff hid the crash from the crowd at the airport.

The craft had a 36-foot wingspan and was equipped with a radio, liferaft and survival gear.

Slovak flew first to Scotland, touched down in the Hebrides, then headed home by way of Iceland, Greenland, Newfoundland, Erie, Pa., Wichita, Kan., and Las Vegas, Nev.

Dartown Resident Dies of Injuries

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Ellis Klapper, Darttown, died Saturday night while being flown to Cincinnati for treatment of burns suffered in a traffic accident in Indiana. Authorities said he suffered burns over 90 per cent of his body.

The Butler County man was being flown to Cincinnati in a small plane operated as an ambulance by a Middletown funeral home. Klapper was the driver of a truck that collided with another and burst into flames on U.S. 130 in Stark County, Ind.

Spock Trial Reopens In Boston

BOSTON (AP) — What apparently will be a long trial for Dr. Benjamin Spock and four codefendants entered its second week today.

Prosecution testimony in the draft evasion conspiracy case has centered on a meeting last October inside the Department of Justice building in Washington.

An FBI agent from Washington was scheduled to testify for the government following the weekend recess.

On trial with 65-year-old baby doctor are Yale Chaplain William Sloan Coffin Jr., 43; Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student; Mitchell Goodman, 44, a New York writer and teacher; and Marcus Raskin, 33, a Washington research director.

If convicted of charges of conspiring to "aid, abet and counsel" youths to avoid the draft they could receive maximum sentences of five year prison terms and $10,000 fines.

The trial recessed Friday after testimony by John McDonough, an assistant deputy U.S. attorney general, who said Spock, Coffin, Goodman and Raskin demanded last Oct. 20 that he accept from them a briefcase filled with draft cards and facsimiles.

"I told them I could not and would not accept the briefcase," McDonough testified.

Yellow Springs Man Sets Trip

TOKYO (AP) — Dr. Earle Reynolds, an anthropologist from Yellow Springs, Ohio, says he plans to sail his 30-ton yacht to Communist China this summer on a friendship voyage.

Reynolds, who now lives in Hiroshima, Japan, said he began making "direct and indirect" contacts for the trip last year. He did not identify his contacts.

He said he wrote to the U.S. Department of Immigration last year informing it of his planned voyage.

Last year Reynolds, 56, sailed his 50-foot craft, the Phoenix, to North Vietnam.

Reynolds said he had not yet selected a crew or exact date for his projected trip to Communist China.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you remember—

When Faye Emerson's low necklines caused much discussion?

When Arthur Godfrey, wearing earphones and sitting at a desk on stage, conducted "Talent Scouts" like a booker for club dates?

When Jerry Lester and a big blonde named Dagmar kept the audiences awake and laughing into the small hours?

If you do, you are probably in that group of citizens that television calls "older," and you also probably remember when summer reruns came during a period of only about 13 weeks and were presented with a bit of a flourish as "The Best of Groucho" or "The Best of Drag- net."

Today none of the networks makes any bones about reruns, and they occupy four or five months of the year.

Only in the cases of the special programs are any attempts made these days to dress up the rebroadcasts. Reruns of specials are called, by all three networks, "encore showings," suggesting that they have been brought back by popular demand.

With reruns in full bloom, the public is getting a last chance to see some shows that will quietly depart from the networks in September. Somehow, after they have been canceled, they sometimes pack a little more charm. Some shows, like "Cowboy in Africa" will disappear without more than a ripple, but others will be missed.

This viewer, while hardly among the faithful fans, will miss "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," partly for its interesting special effects and trick photography, but more for its ingenious assortment of monsters that, week after week, placed the submarine and its crew in deadly peril. My favorites were the scary ones that looked like outsize boiled lobsters or overgrown bunches of lettuce.

I shall also miss the robot of "Lost in Space," which over two seasons developed a lovable personality and in one episode was involved in a romance of sorts with a lady computer.

"Tarzan," if watched in the proper mood and not tackled too often, has also been a frequent source of amusement.

All of these, of course, were potboilers and primarily designed to attract the young audiences, but often in their earnest ways they were funnier than the most conscientious comedy shows.

Stephen Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Nelson of 560 Ridgewood Drive, is the 1968 recipient of the James T. Shea Memorial Trophy.

Steve is a senior at Circleville High School. He is the fourth winner of the award, given annually by the Circleville Council of the Knights of Columbus to honor a senior boy of a Pickaway County high school who is scholastically outstanding, lettered in an interscholastic sport and is an active member of the church of his choice.

Steve has an accumulative grade point average of 3.71 out of a possible 4.0 and ranks eighth in a class of 175.

He was a member of the Key Club, English Merit Society, National Honor Society and in the Preliminary District State Scholarship competition took first place in plane geometry. As a junior he was chosen as an alternate for Buckeye Boy's State.

In four years of wrestling he received three varsity letters and was awarded a second place trophy at the Worthington Wrestling Invitational tournament. He was also a member of the golf and track squads during his high school career.

His coach, Kent Carpenter commended his effort and ability, calling him a fine example and leader.

Steve is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Circleville. He is active in Westminster Fellowship and was vice president of that group. He is one of the few high school age singers in the adult church choir.

Rev. Henry A. Walters, his pastor, referred to him as a "most dependable, outstanding boy."

Steve will continue his education this fall at Purdue University in Indiana and will major in Computer Technology.

The James T. Shea award is named in honor of Mr. James T. Shea, the first deceased member of Hannan Council 5297, Knights of Columbus, and the father of two present members, Jim and Tom Shea, both of Circleville.

The award will be presented by James P. Shea and Ralph May at Circleville High School Awards Day ceremonies 2 p.m. May 27.

A large trophy, with all winners names engraved, is presented to the high school to keep for one year. The boy is given a smaller replica of the large trophy.

Members of the selection committee were Robert J. Monarski, chairman, Dallas E. Elliott Jr., John Vendilinski, George Ebbrecht, Steve Brudzinski, Tom Shea and Roger McConnell, with the assistance of the coaches and guidance counselors of the four county high schools and pastors of many of the area churches.

News Awards Presented by APSO

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Cincinnati Enquirer won the community service award in the annual newspaper competition of The Associated Press Society of Ohio for its series of stories on the Negro community in Greater Cincinnati.

Joe Cella of the Hamilton Journal-News won the enterprise division of the competition for a story about a soldier's heroic death in Vietnam.

Winners in the categories of community service, enterprise, writing and photography were announced Saturday night by Tom Hunter, APSO president and editor of the Wilmington News-Journal, at a banquet during the group's spring meeting.

The Enquirer's winning series dealt with the Negro community in that city and its efforts to lift itself out of poverty.

Cella's winning story centered on a soldier who enlisted in the Army despite a chronic illness and inspired his fellow soldiers before he died a hero's death in Vietnam.

The writing category covered editorial and feature writing, series reports and spot news. Three place winners were selected in each area of reporting.

Tom Teepen, The Dayton Daily News, won first place in the editorial category; Tom Gearhart, The Toledo Blade, captured first place in feature writing; Jayne Ellison, The Dayton Daily News, took top honors in the series category, and William F. Miller and Joseph Eszterhas, both of The Cleveland Plain Dealer, teamed up to win the top place in spot news.

Teepen won for his editorial entitled, "Open City: The Bright Goal." Gearhart for a feature on "The Life of a Lifer," Ellison for a series entitled "Mental Health: Ohio's Shame," and the Miller-Eszterhas team for their story on collapse of the silver bridge across the Ohio River.

Robert W. Funk, Elyria Chronicle-Telegram, took second place in editorial writing for an editorial headlines "Monday Quarterbacking," while Thomas Vail and Ray Dorsey of the Plain Dealer teamed up in winning third place among editorials for one entitled "To Elect a Negro Mayor."

Bill Clark, Dayton Daily News, won second place in features for an account of the Silver Bridge collapse, and Seymour Rothman, The Toledo Blade, won third place for a feature entitled "Where Did the Yo - Yo Go?"

In the series division second place went to George Palmer, Cincinnati Enquirer, for several stories entitled, "The Unemployables," and Jim Richards, Columbus Dispatch, won third place for his stories about water pollution.

Palmer also won second place in the spot news division for an account of rioting in downtown Cincinnati. Tom Walton, The Toledo Blade, won third place for a story of expressway traffic deaths.

In the photographic division, Paul R. Schell of The Youngstown Vindicator won first place in spot news and Herral Long of The Toledo Blade captured first place in the sports division.

Schell captured second place in the spots photography division with a picture of a horse, its rider in the "up post" position, going over a hurdle.

Panama Election Board Starts Counting Again

PANAMA (AP) — Under national guard protection and with a new chairman chosen by the opposition party, the National Elections Board began counting ballots around the clock Sunday to determine Panama's new president.

Stalled since Thursday, the count from the May 12 election resumed after the guard agreed with opposition members of the board that Octavio Triunfo— not pro-government member David Amado—was the proper chairman.

Cincinnati Man
Charged in Slaying
CINCINNATI (AP) — Grover Lang, 38, was charged Sunday with second-degree murder in the fatal shooting of another Cincinnati Friday night on a sidewalk near the downtown section.

The victim, John Lawrence, 42, was shot, police said, during an argument over a woman.

Their candidate, David Samudio, won by 5,000 votes. Opposition backers say their candidate, ex-President Arnulfo Arias, won by 50,000. A deadlock in the elections board developed when Amado said he would include in the count ballots challenged by the opposition as fraudulent.

Humphrey Seen As Favorite In Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is the overwhelming presidential choice of committed Pennsylvania Democratic convention delegates, an Associated Press poll showed today.

The poll showed him running 27 to 1 ahead of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and 3 to 1 in front of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Pennsylvania, with 162 delegates, will have 130 votes at the party's national convention in Chicago this August. This is about 10 per cent of the number needed to win the nomination. The delegation is the third largest among the states.

The AP mail and telephone survey lists these Pennsylvania votes:

Humphrey 63%, McCarthy 1, Kennedy 24, uncommitted or unreached 45.

It is almost a clear majority with a third of the votes still up for grabs.

Nixon's Diet: Cottage Cheese

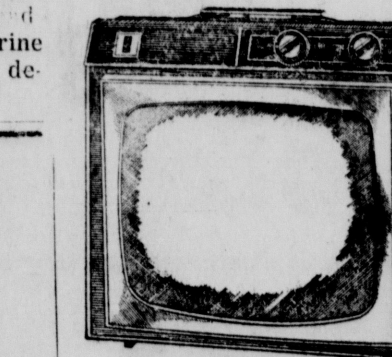

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, answering questions on a campaign television broadcast, was asked how he keeps his weight down.

"I eat cottage cheese until it runs out of my ears," he said. "I put catsup on it. If you put catsup on it, it doesn't taste like cottage cheese at all."

Viet War Intensifies; Red Troops Thrust at Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist command intensified the Vietnam war over the weekend and for the first time introduced Russian long-range anti-aircraft guns to its beefed up air defenses just above the demilitarized zone.

Ohio Highway Toll Hits 10 For Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Traffic accidents leveled off Sunday and the weekend death toll stood at 10, below the average for previous nonholiday week ends.

The count is kept from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday. The average number killed during past weekends was 15.

The dead included:

Herbert G. Sexton, 30, Rt. 1, Wakeman, when his car ran off Ohio 113 in Erie County.

Sharon Patten, 17, Cardington, in a one-car accident on Ohio 529 near Cardington in Morrow County.

Jessie Spicer, 19, Fairborn, when his car went out of control and crashed into two cars at a five-way intersection in Dayton.

Sheila Seta, 19, Cincinnati, after the car she was riding in was involved in a two-car crash in downtown Cincinnati.

Leonard Buchanan, 57, Chesapeake, in a two-car collision two miles east of Chesapeake in Lawrence County.

Alvin Wilkey 53 near Ravenna, in a three-car collision east of Milford in Cuyahoga County.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

Allied forces reported killing more than 1,000 enemy troops in a weekend of savage fighting from the outskirts of Saigon to the demilitarized zone.

In keeping with Hanoi's proclaimed "fight and talk" policy, the Communist command's push came as North Vietnamese and American negotiators prepared for their fifth meeting today in the Paris cease-fire talks.

American casualties were reported as 54 killed and 192 wounded in the series of battles. South Vietnamese losses were termed light.

Sharp fighting continued on three sides of Saigon today. The Viet Cong was believed moving 500 to 1,000 troops toward the capital.

The heaviest fighting over the weekend came in the northern sector, where North Vietnamese troops renewed their pressure on the U.S. Marine headquarters at Dong Ha, and in the central highlands, where a massive campaign may be shaping up.

U.S. spokesmen said superior allied firepower led to enemy defeats in most of the clashes, but American troops appeared to have been set back in at least two places.

About 800 North Vietnamese overran a section of the perimeter and four bunkers at a U.S. 4th Infantry Division patrol and artillery base 11 miles west of Dak To in the central highlands.

About 400 Viet Cong troops attacking with grenades, mortars and small arms killed five in a U.S. 25th Division unit in night defensive positions on the northern outskirts of Saigon, six miles from the center of the city. The enemy withdrew early today.

Heavy fighting raged about 10 miles from the headquarters of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division, 11 miles below the demilitarized zone.

Negro Soldiers Show Mixed Feelings About Whites, Viet War

The Circleville Herald,
16 Mon. May 27, 1968
Circleville, Ohio

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Negro soldier in Vietnam speaks: "This is no man's war and certainly not a colored man's. When people can't live together back home, I can't see coming over here fighting."

Another Negro soldier speaks: "I'm sick of it. They say we're fighting to free the people of South Vietnam. But Newark wasn't free. Was Watts? Was Detroit? I mean, which is more important, home or here?"

And another: "I'm an American citizen first. It's the only country, the only life I know. I can't turn my back on it, even though I know it's been wrong many times, particularly about colored people. I feel I have a sense of responsibility and I'll stick with my country."

For two months, Paul Hathaway, a staff writer for the Washington Evening Star, talked to Negro soldiers in Vietnam and to Negro veterans who had returned home. The quotations above and the observations that follow came from the five articles published by the Star.

"For most Negro soldiers in Vietnam it is not a case of 'My Country, Right or Wrong,' but 'My Country, Right and Wrong,'" Hathaway, a Negro, wrote in the last of the articles, copyrighted by the Star.

"They see America as a land of cruel paradoxes, conflicting commitments and shifting priorities. They see the war as theirs and not yet quite theirs, and democracy as something that is in their presence, yet not within their grasp."

To many Negro soldiers who see their lives threatened by war the Vietnamese are not so much people as obstructions that must be overcome, Hathaway reported. They consider them people who refuse to help themselves, who should be able to lift themselves by their own bootstraps without American help.

Unconfirmed stories circulate among Negro soldiers in which the enemy treats the Negro either as a friend or as a neutral party.

"Man, I hear the gooks got these seven soldiers and they killed all six whites and they let this one blood (Negro) go," Hathaway quoted one Negro as saying.

These stories, Hathaway added, are made more believable by Viet Cong and North Vietnamese leaflets aimed at American troops.

No Suggestions

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — Three weeks after Fred Snyder, city administrator, put up seven suggestion boxes in stores, banks and filling stations so people could disclose their gripes, he opened the boxes. The only thing inside was one cigar wrapper.

ican troops which address the Negro soldier:

"Black man, why are you fighting here? We don't want to fight you. Your war is against the white man back home."

A Marine private in Dong Ha said he thought the Negro death rate in Vietnam was as high as 60 per cent.

"I think we're being killed off," he said. "I think we're being used. That's what."

Defense Department figures show the percentage of Negroes killed in Vietnam is slightly higher than for whites, a statistic the Pentagon attributes to the higher percentage of Negroes in elite volunteer combat units and the high percentage of noncommissioned officers among Negro soldiers.

There were 56,000 Negroes in the armed forces in Vietnam on Jan. 1, 1968, 9.8 per cent of the total fighting force. Negro deaths in combat during the six years prior to Jan. 1 were 14.1 per cent of total U.S. deaths.

Many Negro soldiers attribute their negative attitude toward the war to the situation at home, not on the war itself.

"It seemed like when the rioting broke out back home, they felt that they had something more important to do in The World (the United States)," said Marine Pfc. Richard L. Gray Jr., Fairmont, W.Va., in Phu Bai. "It seemed like they wanted to be back there kicking somebody, too."

As a group of five Negro soldiers sat around a mess table nodding agreement, Army Spec. 4 William F. Washington, Los Angeles criticized stories he had read about harmony between Negro and white on the battlefield.

"All this talk about integration in the foxhole," Washington said. "Well, why not? Why not? You cover his hide and he covers yours. That's how you survive."

"But you see, that doesn't mean that he's going to treat you any different when he gets back in The World. It's just that you need each other more now."

It was that way in Nha Trang, he said. The whites talked with them, worked with them. But when it came downtown to the bars and to the women, they went separate ways.

To Marine Cpl. Hosea Dyson, Chicago, being black is irrelevant in a war, there are only those who gain glory in fighting for a cause they believe in.

"I'm an American citizen first. It's the only country, the only life I know. I can't turn my back on it."

"Once when a white soldier left my squad," said Dyson, "he shook my hand and told me he'd been proud to be in the same foxhole with me. It made me feel good, so good. I would have felt good if a Negro had said it, but it struck me that someone white should do it."

And after the war? "I think war changes men," Dyson said. "It will make a difference when we get back. Out here, they see us as people. Before, you were just a shadow or something. Now they know you."

In Pleiku, Airborne Spec. 4 Lawrence Harkless, a former policeman in Watts, spoke of the large number of Negroes who join elite groups such as the airborne.

"We join because of pride and the $55 extra a month," he said. "It's a challenge. The brother likes the challenge. We're tough and we want everybody to know it. When I get home, I don't want anyone to mess with me in the block. Because I'm a man. If they never noticed before, they better notice now."

And once the Negro gets out of the service. Then what?

"If he does not have an education, a high school diploma or something, then he is damn near unemployable," said Costel N. Akrie, San Francisco, one of nine veterans' affairs coordinators working for the Urban League. "Despite his youth, he is the same as the uneducated guy in World War II or the Korean War. He's at a dead end. The kid comes back from Vietnam. He sees black veterans from other wars fighting the same problems and he asks himself, 'Is this going to happen to me?'"

Many Negroes had service responsibilities—antiaircraft technician, demolition expert or rifleman—that do not lend themselves to civilian life.

"They tell us we need college degrees," Akrie said, "but there are few Negroes that have them. They will require a bachelor's degree from a Negro for a particular kind of job, but a high school diploma from a white veteran."

More Negroes than whites take advantage of various GI

education and vocational training programs—53 per cent compared to 45 per cent. Government figures also show that for the Negro ex-serviceman the median family income is $4,557. For families headed by a Negro who is not a veteran, the median income is $3,610.

Charles Walker, 24, who holds a certificate for meritorious service for spearheading a counterattack in Phu Lai found it different. He is earning $450 a month while in training as a customer engineer for International Business Machines.

"Some guys feel that just because they have been to Vietnam that something should be handed to them," he says. "But I don't feel that way. It's like starting a new life when you get out. You have to prove yourself all over again."

Names Chosen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After hearing complaints that citizens get lost in the downtown complex of government buildings, the City Council picked out names for two City Hall annexes. An eight-story building south of City Hall will be named City Hall South, and a 12-story building under construction east of City Hall will be called City Hall East.

Band Boosters

Slate Meeting

The final meeting of the Circleville Band Boosters will be held 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the High School cafeteria.

Films will be shown of the senior and junior bands. There will be an election of new officers for next year. Persons interested in supporting the bands are urged to attend, particularly parents of band members.

To Marine Cpl. Hosea Dyson, Chicago, being black is irrelevant in a war, there are only those who gain glory in fighting for a cause they believe in.

"I'm an American citizen first. It's the only country, the only life I know. I can't turn my back on it..."

"Once when a white soldier left my squad," said Dyson, "he shook my hand and told me he'd been proud to be in the same foxhole with me. It made me feel good, so good. I would have felt good if a Negro had said it, but it struck me that someone white should do it."

And after the war? "I think war changes men," Dyson said. "It will make a difference when we get back. Out here, they see us as people. Before, you were just a shadow or something. Now they know you."

In Pleiku, Airborne Spec. 4 Lawrence Harkless, a former policeman in Watts, spoke of the large number of Negroes who join elite groups such as the airborne.

"We join because of pride and the $55 extra a month," he said. "It's a challenge. The brother likes the challenge. We're tough and we want everybody to know it. When I get home, I don't want anyone to mess with me in the block. Because I'm a man. If they never noticed before, they better notice now."

And once the Negro gets out of the service. Then what?

"If he does not have an education, a high school diploma or something, then he is damn near unemployable," said Costel N. Akrie, San Francisco, one of nine veterans' affairs coordinators working for the Urban League. "Despite his youth, he is the same as the uneducated guy in World War II or the Korean War. He's at a dead end. The kid comes back from Vietnam. He sees black veterans from other wars fighting the same problems and he asks himself, 'Is this going to happen to me?'"

Many Negroes had service responsibilities—anti-aircraft technician, demolition expert or rifleman—that do not lend themselves to civilian life.

"They tell us we need college degrees," Akrie said, "but there are few Negroes that have them. They will require a bachelor's degree from a Negro for a particular kind of job, but a high school diploma from a white veteran."

More Negroes than whites take advantage of various GI

education and vocational training programs—53 per cent compared to 45 per cent. Government figures also show that for the Negro ex-serviceman the median family income is $4,557. For families headed by a Negro who is not a veteran, the median income is $3,610.

Charles Walker, 24, who holds a certificate for meritorious service for spearheading a counterattack in Phu Lai found it different. He is earning $450 a month while in training as a customer engineer for International Business Machines.

"Some guys feel that just because they have been to Viet-

Bryant Lauded By U of C Grid Coach

The University of Cincinnati just completed their annual spring football practice. One of the better performances during the drills was turned in by former Circleville High athlete, Ron Bryant, a rugged 185-pound sophomore-to-be linebacker.

Cincy Head Coach Homer Rice, commencing his second year as Bearcat grid boss, says of Bryant, "Ron's going to be a real promising sophomore. He had a great spring for us, after showing us what he could do last year with our fine freshman team."

The Circleville grad led the Cincy frosh last year to an undefeated season, heading the "Kittens" defensive alignment. He was elected tri-captain by his teammates.

"Ron was primarily a receiver in high school," commented Rice "But he really enjoys playing defense. He's a real fine youngster and an extremely hard worker."

On the team in general, Rice stated, "The total conditioning of the squad really impressed me. If our players will continue this summer to keep their 'shape', we can come back in the fall ready to go on execution of plays."

Bryant played offensive end for the 1966 Circleville High School South Central Ohio League Championship team. He saw very little action with the CHS defensive unit during his playing career.

He is attending the University of Cincinnati on an athletic grant. Ron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bryant, Route 1, Ashville.

Atomic Races

Rained Out Again

CHILLICOTHE. — After allowing a rare opening on schedule the weatherman made the wipeout of racing at Atomic Speedway complete for the remainder of May by forcing the cancellation of Saturday night's events.

Officials of Chillicothe Stock Car Racing Association said the soggy condition of the grounds and the blocking of roads in rain-soaked southern Ohio made the race impossible for the third straight week.

Next on the schedule is the year's first special event, the Memorial Championship to be held next Saturday night with 50-lap super-modified and 35-lap hobby stock features.

Doctor O.K.'s This Hemorrhoid Treatment For N.J. Couple's Son

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Wharton, N.J. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jeffers report: "Our son suffered from hemorrhoids. I asked the doctor about Preparation H and he gave us the O.K. Our son is now fine, thanks to Preparation H. (Note: Doctors have proved in most cases — Preparation H actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced. There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)"

Belmont Tops Big Weekend Of Racing

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
The 100th running of the Belmont Stakes, in which Forward Pass and Dancer's Image will meet for the third time, climaxes a big holiday weekend in thoroughbred racing this week.

In the record book, Forward Pass has a chance to become the first Triple Crown winner in 20 years, but many racing fans consider Dancer's Image even with the Calumet Farm color bearer after the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

Dancer's Image carried the silks of Peter Fuller across the finish line first in the Kentucky Derby on May 4, but later was disqualified.

Forward Pass, declared the official Derby winner, won the Preakness on May 18 by six lengths over Out Of The Way with Dancer's Image disqualified from third for bullying between horses in the stretch.

Call Me Prince, Out Of The Way and Stage Door Johnny are among the other possible starters in the 1 1/2 mile Belmont, which likely will gross more than $150,000.

The appearance of Dr. Fager in the $100,000-added Metropolitan Handicap at Belmont on Decoration Day, Thursday, highlights the start of the big holiday weekend.

Dr. Fager, perhaps the fastest thoroughbred in training, has been assigned top weight of 134 pounds for the Met mile and is favored to make it three-for-three this year. In his previous 1968 starts he won the $50,000 Robeson Handicap and the $100,000 Californian.

This year's $100,000 Jersey Derby at Garden State also is on Thursday's holiday card.

NL Owners Meet Today

meenie, minie, mo which way will the National League go? National League baseball owners meet today to decide which two of five cities, if any, they will take in for the 1969 season.

The owners voted on expanding to 12 teams earlier this year if they could unanimously agree on the two new members. The if wasn't considered much at the time but recently has gained momentum.

The cities in the hamper are San Diego, Dallas-Fort Worth, Buffalo, Milwaukee and Montreal. Bob Carpenter, owner of the Philadelphia Phillies, is said to oppose expansion of any kind at the time. That alone could kill the move to match the rival American League.

The American League has expanded to 12 teams, with Kansas City and Seattle joining the circuit next season, and is currently considering a divisional split with a playoff to determine the championship.

Top Netherlands

PARIS (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Court and Kerry Melville of Australia beat The Netherlands team 3-0 and won the Federation Cup Championship Sunday as the U.S. team of Nancy Richey and Mary Ann Eisel was eliminated in the semifinals.

Harris Tops Owens' Record in Prep Track

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Jim Harris of Dayton Roth is running in the footsteps of Jesse Owens. In fact, he went just a shade faster than the famed runner did in the 1930s.

Harris turned on the speed in the finals Saturday of the Class AA State High School Track Championships and won the 100 in 9.5 seconds—shattering the 35-year-old record of 9.6 set by Owens.

Harris also won the 440, but his Olympian-type efforts fell short as Cleveland Glenville — led by brilliant Bob Ware—won its fourth straight Class AA title.

Glenville collected 17 points to edge Dayton Roth and Sandusky who finished with 16 each.

Kent State High easily won the Class A title, piling up 24 points to only 12 by second place finisher Yellow Springs. Gary Lindstedt paced Kent, being the only double winner Saturday for the small schools.

Lindstedt and Harris were voted the meet's outstanding performers.

Harris and Ware staged a personal duel throughout the day. Harris clipped Ware in the 100. But Ware came back and edged Harris in the 220, which turned out to be the race that gave Glenville the title.

Glenville's actual winning margin came in the 220 when Claude Reeves finished fifth, giving the Clevelanders the title by one point.

Harris, a senior, also won the 440 in 47.9, beating Denny Dicke of Upper Arlington, who was clocked in 47.9.

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Graham Hill, driving a Lotus, won the Grand Prix of Monaco Formula One race Sunday, finishing the 160 miles in 2:32.3 for an average speed of 77.7 miles per hour.

Ware's winning time in the 220 was 21.3. Harris was clocked in the same time, but Ware broke the tape first and got the victory. Ware also anchored Glenville's winning 880-yard relay team.

In addition to Harris' record performance in the 100, three other Class AA records fell, in the pole vault, the two-mile run and the mile relay.

Buddy Baker World 600 Race Winner

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Big Buddy Baker sat in a rain shower for three hours and one minute Sunday, drove a stock car at moderate speeds for another three hours and four minutes, and walked away $27.45 richer.

Baker's Dodge was in first place when the $152,000 World 600 stock car race at the Charlotte Motor Speedway was stopped by rain after 382.5 miles.

The 6-foot-4, 225-pound Baker had won only one race before Sunday—the National 500, on the same track last year. That race was also the last one over 250 miles to be won by a Chrysler product.

The 44-car starting field took the green flag under threatening skies, and ran for only 108 laps before the rains came. Engines stopped and drivers tensely waited for two hours and three minutes while giant helicopters swooped low over the 1 1/2-mile tri-oval track in an attempt to dry it with the wind from their rotors.

The race began again, but lasted for only 16 laps before the skies opened once more. After another holdup of 58 minutes the drivers returned to the track under a caution flag and completed another 131 laps before the race was called at 7 p.m. EDT.

Donnie Allison, who won the pole position with a record-breaking qualifying run of 159.222 miles per hour in a Ford Torino, finished second, one-half lap behind Baker.

Mets Irritated At Rainy Game

ATLANTA (AP) — Johnny Murphy, general manager of the New York Mets, said the playing conditions were "the worst I've ever seen."

Mets Manager Gil Hodges called it a "disgrace to baseball."

But umpire Shag Crawford, among those who had the final say, put it this way: "He (Murphy) is not in this uniform. I have to use my own judgment in this situation. We are told to make every effort."

The controversy, involving rain-soaked Atlanta Stadium erupted Sunday after the Atlanta Braves took a 2-1 rain-abridged victory over the Mets.

Murphy, who obviously was irritated over the decision to start the contest, said the game "never should have gone past the first batter."

"The Atlanta management had every right to turn the game over to the umpires," Murphy declared. "They (the umpires) should have called it. They used bad judgment . . . really bad."

15 feet, 1 1/4 inches to break the pole vault mark of 15-1 set by Dave Rimmer of Mount Healthy in 1966.

NL Owners Meet Today

meenie, minnie, mo which way will the National League go? National League baseball owners meet today to decide which two of five cities, if any, they will take in for the 1969 season.

The owners voted on expanding to 12 teams earlier this year if they could unanimously agree on the two new members. The if wasn't considered much at the time but recently has gained momentum.

The cities in the hamper are San Diego, Dallas-Fort Worth, Buffalo, Milwaukee and Montreal.

Bob Carpenter, owner of the Philadelphia Phillies, is said to oppose expansion of any kind at the time. That alone could kill the move to match the rival American League.

The American League has expanded to 12 teams, with Kansas City and Seattle joining the circuit next season, and is currently considering a divisional split with a playoff to determine the championship.

Top Netherlands. PARIS (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Court and Kerry Melville of Australia beat The Netherlands team 3-0 and won the Federation Cup Championship Sunday as the U.S. team of Nancy Richey and Mary Ann Eisel was eliminated in the semifinals.

Harris Tops Owens' Record in Prep Track

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Jim Harris of Dayton Roth is running in the footsteps of Jesse Owens. In fact, he went just a shade faster than the famed runner did in the 1930s.

Harris turned on the speed in the finals Saturday of the Class AA State High School Track Championships and won the 100 in 9.5 seconds—shattering the 35-year-old record of 9.6 set by Owens.

Harris also won the 440, but his Olympian-type efforts fell short as Cleveland Glenville—led by brilliant Bob Ware—won its fourth straight Class AA title.

Glenville collected 17 points to edge Dayton Roth and Sandusky who finished with 16 each.

Kent State High easily won the Class A title, piling up 24 points to only 12 by second place finisher Yellow Springs. Gary Lindstedt paced Kent, being the only double winner Saturday for the small schools.

Lindstedt and Harris were voted the meet's outstanding performers.

Harris and Ware staged a personal duel throughout the day. Harris clipped Ware in the 100. But Ware came back and edged Harris in the 220, which turned out to be the race that gave Glenville the title. Glenville's actual winning margin came in the 220 when Claude Reeves finished fifth, giving the Clevelanders the title by one point.

Harris, a senior, also won the 440 in 47.4, beating Denny Dicke of Upper Arlington, who was clocked in 47.9.

Ware's winning time in the 220 was 21.3. Harris was clocked in the same time, but Ware broke the tape first and got the victory. Ware also anchored Glenville's winning 880-yard relay team.

In addition to Harris' record performance in the 100, three other Class AA records fell, in the pole vault, the two-mile run and the mile relay.

Buddy Baker World 600 Race Winner

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Big Buddy Baker sat in a rain shower for three hours and one minute Sunday, drove a stock car at moderate speeds for another three hours and four minutes, and walked away $27.45 richer.

Baker's Dodge was in first place when the $152,000 World 600 stock car race at the Charlotte Motor Speedway was stopped by rain after 382.5 miles.

The 6-foot-4, 225-pound Baker had won only one race before Sunday—the National 500, on the same track last year. That race was also the last one over 250 miles to be won by a Chrysler product.

The 44-car starting field took the green flag under threatening skies, and ran for only 108 laps before the rains came. Engines stopped and drivers tensely waited for two hours and three minutes while giant helicopters swooped low over the 1 1/2-mile tri-oval track in an attempt to dry it with the wind from their rotors.

The race began again, but lasted for only 16 laps before the skies opened once more. After another holdup of 58 minutes the drivers returned to the track under a caution flag and completed another 131 laps before the race was called at 7 p.m. EDT.

Donnie Allison, who won the pole position with a record-breaking qualifying run of 159.222 miles per hour in a Ford Torino, finished second, one-half lap behind Baker.

Mets Irritated At Rainy Game. ATLANTA (AP) — Johnny Murphy, general manager of the New York Mets, said the playing conditions were "the worst I've ever seen."

Mets Manager Gil Hodges called it a "disgrace to baseball." But umpire Shag Crawford, among those who had the final say, put it this way: "He (Murphy) is not in this uniform. I have to use my own judgment in this situation. We are told to make every effort."

The controversy, involving rain-soaked Atlanta Stadium erupted Sunday after the Atlanta Braves took a 2-1 rain-abridged victory over the Mets.

Murphy, who obviously was irritated over the decision to start the contest, said the game "never should have gone past the first batter."

"The Atlanta management had every right to turn the game over to the umpires," Murphy declared. "They (the umpires) should have called it. They used bad judgment . . . really bad."

15 feet, 1 3/4 inches to break the pole vault mark of 15-1 set by Dave Rimmer of Mount Healthy in 1966.

Leslie Nagy of Niles covered the two-mile run in 9:27.0, bettering the 9:29.9 set by Dick Roski of Cleveland Heights in 1966. Cleveland John Adams won the mile relay in 3:18.2, clipping seven-tenths off the mark set by Cleveland John Kennedy in 1967.

Drysdale's 4th Consecutive Shutout Blanks Astros, 5-0

Tigers, Oakland in Odd Weekend

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
The next time the Detroit Tigers visit the American League's newest city they're liable to show up in armor-plated flannels.

In splitting a pair of weekend decisions with the brash, young Athletics in Oakland, the Tigers:

—Had three starters, including Al Kaline, knocked out of commission.

—Had another regular banished following a Sunday free-for-all.

—And had their league lead cut to one game by Baltimore's streaking Orioles.

Pinch hitter Rene Lachemann added insult to injury in Sunday's brawl-marred series finale, stroking a run-scoring single in the 10th inning to give the A's a 7-6 victory.

Elsewhere, the Orioles outscored Washington 8-7 for their fifth straight victory, Minnesota nipped Boston 5-4, Cleveland beat California 5-2 and the New York Yankees took a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 5-1 and 7-6.

The Tigers and A's battled to a 2-2 rain-abbreviated tie in Friday night's series opener. The Tigers won 2-1 Saturday night, but lost Kaline for two to three weeks when the injury-plagued outfielder was struck by a Lew Krausse pitch and suffered a hairline fracture of his right forearm.

Indy Trials Go into Extra Day

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Qualifications for the 52nd 500 mile auto race Thursday went into an extra session today at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway for the first time since 1952.

Rain, all but one day of the last three weeks, left the time trials schedule in a shambles.

Nine cars qualified Saturday in high winds, headed by Mel Kenyon, Lebanon, Ind., at a modest 165.191 miles per hour. Eight spots remain open in the 33-car line-up.

The track was too wet for speed until well after the 6 p.m. EST scheduled close of time trials Sunday.

Rules permitted the Speedway to complete the line-up any way it saw fit, and it decided to let every healthy unqualified car—about 25—make one more run. The 25 already qualified cars were ruled safe from "bumping" by any subsequent superior speeds.

Two provisional qualifications were made at dusk Sunday by veteran Bill Cheesbourg, Tucson, Ariz., a slow 157.274 in an Eagle-Ford, and rookie Bill Puterbaugh, Roxana, Ill., 157.301 in a Gerhardt-Ford.

The consensus in the Speedway's Gasoline Alley was that it didn't make much difference who filled the last eight spots in the line-up.

The three Lotus turbines, driven by Joe Leonard, Graham Hill and Art Pollard, are considered the class of the field if they hold up for 500 miles.

Lunn, 23, of Sacramento, Calif., said he was planning on a birdie 4 when he made the eagle. He putted well throughout the tournament, making many two-to-five-foot putts for pars.

Monty Kaser, of Wichita, Kan., was second at 269 and won $12,000. Like Lunn, he is a former National Public Links champion.

Jim Stefanich Is Top Kegler
GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP)—Olive Stefanich may never see her husband, Jim, bowl again.

She wasn't on hand to see Jim wrap up the 27th National All Star Championship Saturday night. She was home in Joliet, Ill.

"She couldn't get away," Stefanich explained. "But it's probably just as well. When she comes to a tournament, I usually lose and when she stays home, I've won quite a few."

Ohio State Wins Women's Tennis
DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State won the singles and doubles championships Sunday in the finals of the Ohio College Women's Tennis Tournament.

Both victories were over Miami coeds.

Marnie Fry won the singles, beating Missy Bradley 7-5, 8-6. OSU's Barbara Rollins and Janet Gallus then took the doubles, whipping Miami's Tina Ziegler and Nancy Spencer 3-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Thinks Drysdale 'Using Something'
HOUSTON (AP)—Grady Hatton, manager of the Houston Astros, says he thinks Los Angeles pitcher Don Drysdale is loading up the ball.

"He's using something," Hatton said Sunday after Drysdale twirled his fourth consecutive shutout of the season, a 5-0 triumph over the Astros.

Mazzinghi Scores
MILAN, Italy (AP)—Sandro Mazzinghi of Italy scored a 15-round decision over champion Kim Ki-soo of Korea Sunday and regained the world junior middleweight championship.

In the same game, Detroit second baseman Dick McAuliffe tossed his bat in disgust while running out a pop fly, tripped over the bat and severely bruised his thigh. He sat out Sunday's game, and slugging outfielder Willie Horton joined him on the sidelines in the fourth inning after injuring his leg while running out a bunt single.

Depleted by the injuries, the Tigers fell behind 6-0. They scored twice in the fifth and struck for four runs in the sixth to knot it at 6-6.

After Dick Tracewski drove in the tying run with a sacrifice fly, Oakland reliever Jack Aker hit Jim Northrup on the back of the batting helmet with a pitch.

Northrup charged the mound and flattened Aker with a flurry of punches as both benches emptied. Horton emerged from the Tigers' dugout in his stocking feet, ready to do battle.

Krausse raced from the Oakland bench to the middle of the scuffle.

A's pitcher John "Blue Moon" Odom, although not in the game, also raced from the dug-out and mixed it up with the Tigers' injured McAuliffe.

When order was restored, Northrup, Krausse and Odom were ejected from the game and Aker was helped to the A's dressing room, his face bruised and scratched, most of his uniform torn off.

Umpire Ed Runge said that Odom was thrown out because "he kicked McAuliffe in the ribs."

Northrup was sent to a nearby hospital as a precautionary measure, then released to join the departing Tigers.

A woman fan was less fortunate. During the fight, one of the Detroit players threw a ball into the stands. It struck her above the right eye, opening a three-inch gash, and doctors said she may have suffered a concussion.

Four innings after the brawl was over, Jim Pagliaroni poked a leadoff double and Lachemann, batting .154 with just one RBI in 15 previous games, sent everybody home with a run-scoring single to left.

The Orioles capitalized on the wildness of Washington pitchers Frank Bertina and Bob Humphreys to score four runs without a hit in the first two innings.

Bruce McDaniel Tops in Track

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Bruce McDaniel of Wilberforce won two events, including a record leap in the triple jump, to highlight the 21st annual Ohio Collegiate Track and Field Championships at Bowling Green State University Saturday.

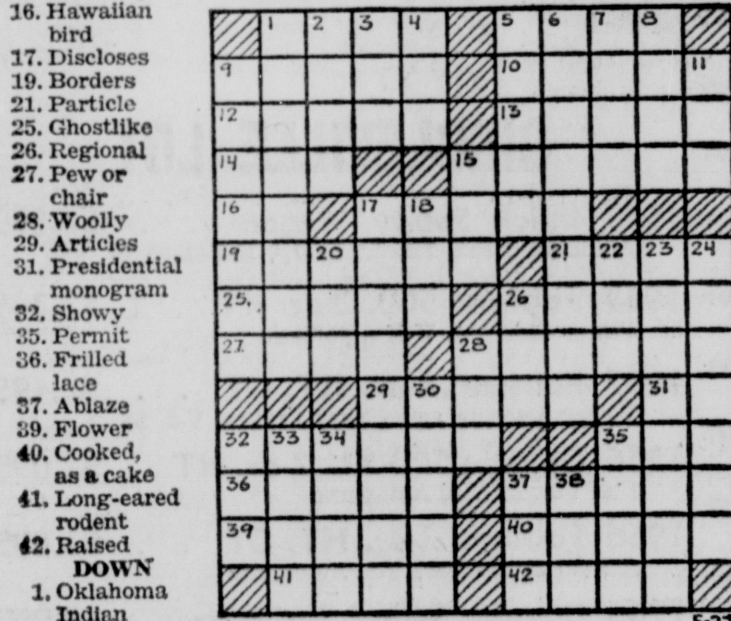

McDaniel won the triple jump with a leap of 48 feet, 10½ inches. He also won the long jump with 22 feet, 5 inches to become the meet's only double winner.

No team scores were kept, but Bowling Green captured five first places and Kent State three. Twenty-four schools competed.

Tigers, Oakland in Odd Weekend

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The next time the Detroit Tigers visit the American League's newest city they're liable to show up in armor-plated flannels.

In splitting a pair of weekend decisions with the brash, young Athletics in Oakland, the Tigers:

—Had three starters, including Al Kaline, knocked out of commission.

—Had another regular bashed following a Sunday free-for-all.

—And had their league lead cut to one game by Baltimore's streaking Orioles.

Pinch hitter Rene Lachemann added insult to injury in Sunday's brawl-marred series finale, stroking a run-scoring single in the 10th inning to give the A's a 7-6 victory.

Elsewhere, the Orioles outscored Washington 8-7 for their fifth straight victory, Minnesota nipped Boston 5-4, Cleveland beat California 5-2 and the New York Yankees took a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 5-1 and 7-6.

The Tigers and A's battled to a 2-2 rain-abbreviated tie in Friday night's series opener. The Tigers won 2-1 Saturday night, but lost Kaline for two to three weeks when the injury-plagued outfielder was struck by a Lew Krausse pitch and suffered a hairline fracture of his right forearm.

In the same game, Detroit second baseman Dick McAuliffe tossed his bat in disgust while running out a pop fly, tripped over the bat and severely bruised his thigh. He sat out Sunday's game, and slugging outfielder Willie Horton joined him on the sidelines in the fourth inning after injuring his leg while running out a bunt single.

Depleted by the injuries, the Tigers fell behind 6-0. They scored twice in the fifth and struck for four runs in the sixth to knot it at 6-6.

After Dick Tracewski drove in the tying run with a sacrifice fly, Oakland reliever Jack Aker hit Jim Northrup on the back of the batting helmet with a pitch.

Northrup charged the mound and flattened Aker with a flurry of punches as both benches emptied. Horton emerged from the Tigers' dugout in his stocking feet, ready to do battle. Krausse raced from the Oakland bench to the middle of the scuffle.

A's pitcher John "Blue Moon" Odom, although not in the game, also raced from the dugout and mixed it up with the Tigers' injured McAuliffe.

When order was restored, Northrup, Krausse and Odom were ejected from the game and Aker was helped to the A's dressing room, his face bruised and scratched, most of his uniform torn off.

Umpire Ed Runge said that Odom was thrown out because "he kicked McAuliffe in the ribs."

Bob Lunn's 268 Wins At Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Angie Lunn neither plays golf nor talks the game at home. But for 40 tense minutes she knew something her husband, Bob, didn't know about the $100,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament.

Angie saw Bob sink a 12-foot eagle putt on the 16th hole and realized he had moved into a two-stroke lead. He didn't know he was on the verge Sunday of winning the $20,000 first prize until he reached the 18th green.

Lunn parred the next two holes, finished with a 12-under-par 65-68-67-268 and won the first tournament since he joined the tour last year.

"I watched on television in our motel room for a while, then went to the course and first saw him there at 15," Angie said. "I knew the eagle was important, but I wasn't thinking ahead that it would win for him."

"I felt a little weak on the 18th green when I knew I could win with a par," Lunn said. "It's probably fortunate I didn't know I was in front by two. Something might have happened."

Lunn, 23, of Sacramento, Calif., said he was planning on a birdie 4 when he made the eagle. He putted well throughout the tournament, making many two-to-five-foot putts for pars.

Monty Kaser, of Wichita, Kan., was second at 269 and won $12,000. Like Lunn, he is a former National Public Links champion.

Indy Trials Go into Extra Day

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Qualifications for the 52nd 500 mile auto race Thursday went into an extra session today at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway for the first time since 1952.

Rain, all but one day of the last three weeks, left the time trials schedule in a shambles.

Nine cars qualified Saturday in high winds, headed by Mel Kenyon, Lebanon, Ind., at a modest 165.191 miles per hour. Eight spots remain open in the 33-car line-up.

The track was too wet for speed until well after the 6 p.m. EST scheduled close of time trials Sunday.

Rules permitted the Speedway to complete the line-up any way it saw fit, and it decided to let every healthy unqualified car — about 25 — make one more run. The 25 already qualified cars were ruled safe from "bumping" by any subsequent superior speeds.

Two provisional qualifications were made at dusk Sunday by veteran Bill Cheesbourg, Tucson, Ariz., a slow 157.274 in an Eagle-Ford, and rookie Bill Puterbaugh, Roxanna, Ill., 157.301 in a Gerhardt-Ford.

The consensus in the Speedway's Gasoline Alley was that it didn't make much difference who filled the last eight spots in the line-up.

The three Lotus turbines, driven by Joe Leonard, Graham Hill and Art Pollard, are considered the class of the field if they hold up for 500 miles.

Lunn, 23, of Sacramento, Calif., said he was planning on a birdie 4 when he made the eagle. He putted well throughout the tournament, making many two-to-five-foot putts for pars.

Monty Kaser, of Wichita, Kan., was second at 269 and won $12,000. Like Lunn, he is a former National Public Links champion.

U.S. Sweeps Cup Semifinals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clark Graebner and Art Ashe completed a United States 5-0 sweep over Mexico in the American Zone Davis Cup semifinal and stood by today waiting to see if Chile or Ecuador will be their next opponent.

Francisco Guzman and Miguel Olvera gave Ecuador a lead against Chile with a 3-6, 7-9, 6-3, 11-9, 6-1 doubles victory over Patricio Rodriguez and Patricio Cornejo of Chile Sunday.
